$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

From Herald news services

The Senate quickly approved 46 to 17 the new $327 million Vietnam-aid bill authorizing a limited military evacuation if necessary but also urging President Ford to get all Americans out "forthwith."

The Senate passed the compromise bill only four hours after it was approved by House and Senate conferees, but the legislation faces days of further delay before Ford can sign it into law.

The house was not in session Friday and is not expected to vote on the measure before Tuesday.

Opponents to the aid bill made a last-ditch attempt to defeat it, berating the administration for its alleged failure to evacuate Americans swiftly enough and contending that Ford could divert some aid funds to military supply purposes.

SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON III, D-Ill., argued that military evacuation would cloud chances for a negotiated settlement with the North Vietnamese and raise risks of renewed U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

But the majority sided with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who said the bill provided necessary safeguards against such a prospect while still leaving Ford some flexibility for action.

"Congress has specified the ways that our armed forces can be used and yet has not tried to be an army officer itself in trying to tell the President directly how to do it," Javits said.

IN SAIGON, South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong said early today he would step down and turn over power to Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh if the National Assembly agreed in a formal vote that he should do so.

In a speech to the full assembly, Huong, 72, said the constitution prohibited him from handing over his powers as President to Minh, who many believe could open peace negotiations with the Communists.

The Assembly began debate on Huong's proposal after the president's speech. Huong succeeded President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday night when Thieu resigned after 10 years in power.

Political sources said Huong already has begun talks with Minh on ways to let the general take over as head of the Saigon government.

IN HIS SPEECH, Huong said he had offered Minh, 59, the post of prime minister but had been turned down. He said Minh, leader of the 1963 coup that deposed the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, insisted on taking over as chief executive.

Vietnamese sources dismissed a report that Huong was planning to send a cabinet minister to Hanoi to sue for peace as — in the words of one — "impossible."

They said the current cabinet is only a caretaker regime. In addition, the sources agreed, a political solution now can be reached only with the Viet Cong.

"We must negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, not Hanoi, and as of now the Viet Cong have refused to talk with the current government," said one politician close to the attempt to install a new Saigon regime.

Political sources said Huong's replacement by Minh could come as early as today, but the changeover likely would not take place until Monday.

Developer paid Atcher property taxes since '70

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT and PAT GERLACH

A major Schaumburg developer has paid property taxes since 1970 on the home of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, a Herald investigation has disclosed.

The developer, Lancer Corp., has spent more than $6,000 for real estate taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct.

The property, an estate that includes a large two-story house, two outbuildings and a swimming pool, is adjacent to the company's Lancer Park subdivision.

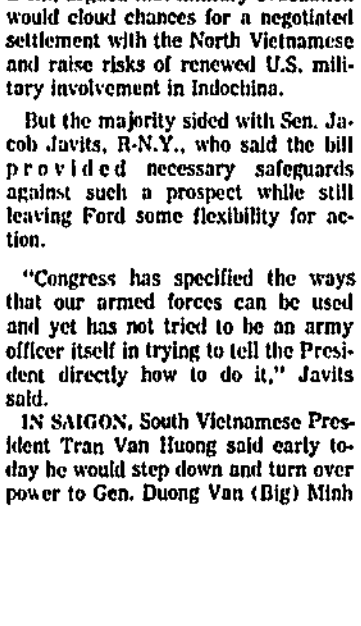
"Yes, we've paid the taxes," said Neal L. Hunter, Lancer president. "Mr. Atcher is going to reimburse us."

BOTH HUNTER and Atcher's attorney, James M. Guthrie, denied any wrongdoing. They said the tax payments were an oversight that followed a series of property divisions in the area.

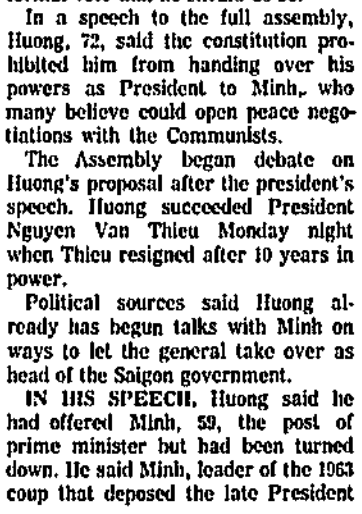
THE HERALD disclosed April 5 that Atcher's land dealings in Schaumburg, including purchase of his home in November 1969, are under investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Atcher purchased the home, less than two years after Lancer won village board approval of annexation, rezoning and subdivision plans for Lancer Park. He bought the home from Fred H. Groen Sr., who also had sold Lancer the property for its subdivision.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the $75,000 paid for the home by Atcher in 1969 was less than its market value. Atcher's records at Schaumburg State Bank, where he received a mortgage loan for the house, were subpoenaed last year.



JAMES M. GUTHRIE



ROBERT O. ATCHER

The Herald investigation of property taxes on the home has revealed that:

- Atcher never has received a tax bill from Cook County for the home although he has owned the property since November 1969.
- He apparently never has requested a property division that would direct a tax bill to him.
- Atcher never has paid taxes on the home.

ATCHER, 60, who did not seek reelection as village president April 15, has refused to discuss his real estate dealings with The Herald.

He was Republican Party candidate in 1970 for county clerk — the office that computes tax rates using real estate assessments.

HUNTER CALLED the tax payments an "oversight." "We just haven't got around to correcting it yet," he said. Hunter said he visited the County Building Thursday in search of records on the property but was unable to obtain them.

Guthrie, a Schaumburg trustee elected to the village board in 1971, said he was hired by Atcher in July 1972 to straighten out the tax bill problem.

"I just didn't get around to it," Guthrie said. "But every once in a while would check to make sure the property was not up for delinquent-tax sale. It is my fault."

Guthrie showed Herald reporters copies of two letters dated 1972 that Guthrie had written to Atcher about the property-tax situation. In both, Guthrie told of difficulties in obtaining a propery division so that Atcher would receive a tax bill or the house.

GUTHRIE SAID Atcher learned only last week that Lancer Corp. was paying the taxes on his home. He said Atcher wasn't aware of the payments until Hunter called Atcher last week and said Herald reporters had inquired about the taxes. At that time, Guthrie said, Hunter informed Atcher of the tax payments by Lancer.

But Hunter said he notified Atcher

A 'loaded' Bricklin— yours for just $10,540

Dealers getting big offers for sport model with '1980s' safety features

by STEVE FORSYTH

Of all the questions to ask about the Bricklin, the newest production car on the market, potential customers seem to have one thing in mind — "How soon can I get one?"

William Kelly, president of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., Arlington Heights, is one of the 13 Bricklin dealers in the Chicago area, and he says he is fighting off buyers who want the only model he has on the showroom floor. Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg, also is a franchised dealer for the Bricklin.

Kelly said he has had six or seven offers to buy the car at more than its list price of $10,540 — if he delivers it now. Gritting his teeth, he said he has had to turn down the offers, but he is selling the cars on a "guaranteed first-come, first-served basis."

The combination sports-safety cars, designated SV-1, for "Safety Vehicle," will arrive at Kelly's and Faul's dealerships at a painstaking rate of two or three a month for the first 90 days, and buyers cannot order by color. The Canadian-built autos are in high demand around the nation, despite the absence of advertising, and Kelly says, "The car has had tremendous reception so far."

Kelly has had one Bricklin on display since Monday, but he didn't advertise it until Thursday. The lookers have been trickling in at a steady pace, and Kelly says up to 50 per cent are seriously considering buying the car.

THE BRICKLIN'S unique qualities have created a market even though buyers usually are not allowed to drive the car before ordering. Kelly said they do have a chance to drive their own model when it arrives and decide then if they want to keep it.

But none of that matters to the drivers who want the sporty model. They are ignoring the price tag, the details, everything — all they want to know is when they can have one.

Malcolm Bricklin has created quite a stir with his brainchild, which can withstand high-speed impacts better than other autos and also protect the driver and passenger. The car has a "birdcage" roll-bar assembly that completely protects the interior, and has bumper-height siderails for protection from side collisions. The gas tank also is protected by a steel frame.

One of the most distinctive features is the gull-wing door, which opens up instead of out, and is powered by an electric-hydraulic system.

Bricklin intended for his car to be sold at a moderate price, but costs of production have been much higher than he expected. The base price is $9,780, but most of the cars are carrying the same options, including a $275 burglar alarm, wax job and a full tank of gasoline.

THE BRICKLIN first went into production in 1974, but Kelly says only 900 were made. The 1975 model is improved, he says, and has a Ford engine instead of the American Motors Corp. powerplant. He had to send mechanics for special training to service the cars. Until now, the few local owners have had to take their chances because there were no local outlets.

The few people who have driven the car praise its handling and smooth ride. The interior fits like a glove, with one-piece bucket seats upholstered to look like suede leather. The dashboard, full of instruments, looks impressive, but don't search for a cigaret lighter — Bricklin thinks cigarets are unsafe while driving, and included no lighters or ashtrays in his car.

You can't help but want to sit down, turn the key and try the beauty out, watching faces turn as you wheel past them on the road. It will be a pleasure allowed to few, but if you can get past the pricetag, the word is that the Bricklin is getting 22 miles per gallon on the road.

As if that matters.

Man, cop scuffle in Elk Grove Village

An Elk Grove Village man and an Elk Grove Village police detective were involved in a scuffle in the parking lot of the Park 'N Shop shopping center, Higgins and Arlington Heights roads Friday night. According to police reports, Det. John Landers stopped Timothy R. Williams, 18, of 29 Grange Pl., for a traffic violation and the scuffle ensued. Landers and Williams were examined at Northwest Community Hospital. Williams remained in Elk Grove Village police headquarters Friday night, unable to post bond for $10,000 and faced with three charges. He was charged by police with disorderly conduct and aggravated battery, reckless driving, and resisting arrest. The incident occurred about 7:30 p.m. Williams will appear in Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court June 4.

Mikva introduces noise-curb bill

Determined to end "pollution without representation," U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, introduced a bill in Congress Friday to strengthen aircraft noise control at O'Hare Airport. The congressman's proposal would create local Community Noise Impact Boards whenever 50 per cent or more of the persons living within the noise-impact area of an airport do not live within the city that controls the airport. The proposal would allow the local boards to mandate regulations for noise control and the regulations would be binding on the air carriers unless successfully appealed to the Federal Aviation Administration or the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Jobless picket for 'overdue' checks

Demonstrators demanding prompt payment of overdue benefit checks picketed in Chicago Friday at the offices of the Illinois Bureau of Employment. The picketers contended that "tens of thousands of us" have been waiting for unemployment checks for months and that the overdue money is causing families to starve.

Stolen engine turns up—at exhibit

Ronald Ignatius of Wheeling had his $200 snowblower stolen April 2, so he was somewhat surprised this week when he recognized the snowblower's engine as part of a science fair exhibit at St. Mary's School, Buffalo Grove. Wheeling police said the 13-year-old exhibitor apparently stole the snowblower after a $2 offer for the engine was turned down by Ignatius' son. The snowblower was stolen from Ignatius' house, 1015 Beverly Dr.

$6,000 outlay for Atcher taxes 'oversight': builder

"around the first of the year" that Lancer had been paying his taxes. Hunter said he met with Atcher early this year to discuss the taxes and that Atcher agreed at that time to reimburse the company.

Hunter said that until early this year, Lancer was not aware it was paying Atcher's taxes.

In 1972, however, a Lancer Corp. official wrote an attorney for Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 that the firm had checked survey maps and County Assessor P. J. Cullerton's records of the parcel of property that included the Atcher home.

The letter, signed by Lancer vice president Al A. Bercher Jr. and dated Oct. 2, 1972, was part of an exchange of correspondence that resulted in the separation of Dist. 54's Collins School site from Atcher's land and that caused mailing of Atcher's 1974 tax bill to Lancer Corp. offices at 401 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

The school land, originally owned by Groen, was donated to Dist. 54 by Lancer.

BERCHER'S letter to Dist. 54 attorney Frank M. Hines, stated that Lancer Corp. paid the $1,064 in taxes and that the bill was "checked" with the county assessor's office. The letter referred to examination of "the latest Sidwell (survey) maps" of the area and included a copy of the tax bill.

On Nov. 20, 1972, Hines filed for tax exemption of the school site and listed as owner of the remaining taxable property "A. A. Bercher, Lancer Corp., 401 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg" although Atcher owned part of the property.

Hines told The Herald that he listed Lancer Corp. as owner of the property because "I assumed that the grantor (Lancer Corp.) was the owner of the remaining balance. I didn't check the title."

The exemption was filed past the deadline for taxes paid in 1973, but the listing of Lancer Corp. as owner of the property directed the 1974 bill to Lancer offices.

Hunter said Friday that he was "unaware" of the 1972 property examination by Bercher. He said a search of tax payments by Lancer Corp. was ordered last fall when the firm received a tax bill for Schaumburg's public works garage. Lancer donated the garage site to the village.

ATCHER'S HOME was included in 1970 in a 23.6-acre tract that was known as Oak Crest Farm and owned by Groen, a former president of the Centex Industrial Park Assn. in Elk Grove.

In 1967, Lancer Corp. purchased part of the tract from Groen for dedication to Dist. 54 and to the park district. Lancer Corp. paid taxes on the school site for three years and has paid taxes on the park property for five years, Hunter said.

In 1973, Atcher's tax bill was incorrectly mailed to Roy A. Klinkefus, 330 S. Wingate Dr., Schaumburg. Klinkefus returned the $1,064 bill to County Treasurer Bernard Korzen. The bill was remailed to Groen and then paid by Lancer.

In 1974, the school site was split from the tract that included Atcher's house and Lancer Corp. was mailed a $2,095 bill for 5.6 acres and for Atcher's house.

RECENT MAPS of the Groen Court area indicate that Atcher owns about 2.54 acres surrounded by Lancer Corp. homes and a baseball diamond that apparently has not been deeded to the park district. County assessment records do not include Atcher's in-ground swimming pool.

Hunter said that confusion concerning the tax bills is illustrated by the 3-acre park site north of the Atcher home. Lancer Corp. files include a deed that was prepared in 1972 to convey the recreation land to the park district. The document was never filed with Cook County officials and Lancer still owns the land, Hunter said.

Atcher's exact share of the real estate taxes since 1970 has not been determined, Hunter said.

TAXES on Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher's home have been paid for five years by Lancer Corp., a major Schaumburg developer. Atchers's lawyer and Lancer officials said payments are an oversight and that Atcher will reimburse the firm. Atcher's purchase of home is subject of a federal probe.

Prober posed as 'hit man'

Swimley murder-contract deal tape played for jury

by STIRLING MORITA

Marlene Swimley told an investigator posing as a crime-syndicate "hit man" that she wanted her husband killed "just as soon as possible," a tape recording played at her trial disclosed Friday.

Jurors in the murder-solicitation trial of Mrs. Swimley, Schaumburg, listened to the tape recording of a murder-contract conversation between her and Joseph Saladino, a state's attorney's investigator posing as "Jimmy Sunshine."

The prosecution rested its case Friday afternoon before Circuit Court Judge Marvin E. Aspen in the Civic Center. Saladino testified that the tape was made from a small recorder concealed on his person during the meeting with Mrs. Swimley before her arrest Jan. 24, 1974 at the Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

ACCORDING TO the recording, the discussion went like this:

Saladino: ". . . What's it about?"

Mrs. Swimley: "Well, it's my husband."

"And?"

"What do you mean?"

"All I got was, I was supposed to contact you. In relation to what? But what is it? You want him what?"

"You know, kind of evaporated."

"What do you mean evaporated?"

"Well, you know, gone."

"Do you mean murder?"

"Yeah."

In the recording, Mrs. Swimley told Saladino she wanted the "hit" made while her husband, Duane Sr., was on duty in Germany with an Illinois Air National Guard unit because "if it's over there, it takes an awful lot of suspicion off anyone around here."

WHEN SALADINO asked "how come you want him bumped off?" she replied, "Take a look at the big picture . . .Doesn't the look on his face give you enough reason? He's a mean bastard, to put it very, very bluntly."

Saladino testified Mrs. Swimley offered him $5,000 for the killer's services — $100 down, $400 the following day and $4,500 once the job was completed.

In the recording, Saladino said, "And when it will happen, and how come it will happen, you won't know that until you read it in the paper."

"Well, I don't care about that, as long as — well, will it happen when he's over there?" was the reply.

IN THE RECORDING, Mrs. Swimley told the investigator she had paid $2,500 to a "hit man" from Detroit earlier and that he had made off with the cash. The jury also was shown a videotape recording of the discussion between Mrs. Swimley and Saladino.

Saladino told the court Mrs. Swimley said her husband's land holdings would be worth about $500,000 in a year. He also testified that she handed him two photographs of Swimley — one large black-and-white picture and a small color snapshot. On the larger photograph, she wrote down Swimley's address in Germany, Saladino said.

However, the defense's first witness, Howard Doulder, a former supervisor and handwriting expert for the U.S. Treasury Dept. crime laboratory, testified that he could not identify the handwriting on the back of the photograph even after analyzing various samples of Mrs. Swimley's handwriting.

Defense testimony continues at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Sweden to extradite 4 terrorists

The Swedish government Friday agreed to extradite to West Germany for trial four of the five terrorists who stormed the German embassy and blew it up after a 12-hour siege in which three persons were killed. The fifth, who is badly injured, probably will be handed over next week.

Six men steal $2.4 million in London

Six masked men broke into a Mayfair branch of the Bank of America in London and cracked a vault "like a child's piggy bank" for cash, jewelry and other valuables that could be worth more than $2.4 million, police said Friday. Authorities said the slick after-hours haul late Thursday night may surpass the previous record of $2.6 million taken in a bank robbery four years ago.

Geneva talks on Mideast urged

Egypt and Romania called Friday for reconvening the Geneva Middle East peace conference as soon as possible and said the Palestine Liberation Organization should be invited to attend. In Paris, visiting King Hussein of Jordan conferred with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and said, "France has an important role to play in the Middle East."

Close race in Portugal elections

Millions of Portuguese voted Friday to elect a constituent assembly in the first free elections in half a century. In a heavy turnout, the Socialists and the liberal Popular Democratic party ran neck-and-neck in early returns, with the Communists a distant third. The Communists were expected to pick up strength in later returns from their strongholds in the south, but full results will not be known until this afternoon.

Ex-governor gets 3-year prison term

Former Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma, a law and order advocate once considered a Democratic vice presidential possibility, Friday was sentenced to three years in federal prison for a conspiracy-bribery scheme. "The verdict of the jury notwithstanding, I say I am not guilty and I feel that within due time I will be vindicated," Hall told the court. He said he would appeal.

Morton confirmed as Commerce Secretary

The Senate Friday confirmed the nomination of Rogers C. B. Morton as Secretary of Commerce. Morton, approved by voice vote and without dissent, succeeds Frederick B. Dent.

Florida Senate votes down ERA

The Florida Senate, warned that passing the Equal Rights Amendment would be like "repealing the law of gravity," voted 21-17 against ratifying the measure Friday. Rejection of the ERA in Florida left only Missouri and Illinois still to act on the amendment this year. The ERA has been ratified by 34 states but needs the affirmative votes of the legislatures of 38 states to become part of the constitution and thus is dead for 1975.

'Family-viewing' time to be initiated

Richard E. Wiley, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, said Friday that starting this fall the first two hours of prime-time evening television will be reserved for programs "suitable for the entire family." The second half of prime time may be devoted to adult themes, he said, but programs which might be disturbing to significant sections of the audience will be preceded by printed and broadcast warnings.

3 bodies found in car in Chicago alley

The bodies of Lawrence Gluckman, 59, a Highland Park physician; Minnie Harris, 20, of Chicago, and an unidentified woman were found Friday night in a late model luxury car parked in an alley on Chicago's far South Side. The two women had been shot in the head. Gluckman had a severe cut over his eye, but police would not speculate on the cause of his death. An FBI spokesman said Gluckman reportedly received an extortion phone call earlier in the day with the caller allegedly demanding $100,000 from Gluckman. It was not immediately known whether the call and the deaths were related.

Urges more jail terms, faster trials

Ford decries 'violent' street crimes

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (UPI) — In a tough law-and-order message, President Ford called Friday for speedier trials, more judges and prosecutors and mandatory jail sentences for "virtually all of those convicted of a violent crime."

Speaking to a special convocation marking the 150th anniversary of the Yale University Law School, Ford said crime in all segments of society is on the rise while the number of people behind bars is down.

Without mentioning the word "Watergate," Ford said the country has "suffered the national disgrace of lawbreaking in high places." Also, Ford added, "there have been too many scandals" in state government.

But the President saved his strongest words for street crime — attacking criminal repeaters and urging protection for their victims.

"Most serious crimes are committed by repeaters. These relatively few persistent criminals who cause so much misery and fear, are the core of the problem. The rest of the American people have a right to protection from their violence," he said.

Ford was graduated from Yale Law School in 1941 and his speech there was billed as a preview of a message on crime and law enforcement he will send to Congress in June.

At the top of his list was the problem of convicted felons.

"I am urging that virtually all of those convicted of a violent crime should be sent to prison," the President said. This should be done especially if a gun were involved, if there were substantial danger of injury to persons and if the convicted person were a repeat offender, he added.

While noting that crime control is primarily a state responsibility under the Constitution, Ford came down hard on plea bargaining and said the federal government could help in several ways: by modifying the Federal Code to make more sentences mandatory, to add judges, prosecutors and public defenders and to limit imprisonment of minor offenders, thus making more room behind bars for convicted felons.

Social Security checks to rise by 8% in July

by United Press International

Financial relief is in store for one fixed-income group particularly hurt by inflation — Social Security pensioners.

An automatic cost-of-living increase of 8 per cent — the first of its kind under the law — will be reflected in the July checks, the government announced Friday. Beneficiaries of the increase, which will total $5.7 billion in the first year, will be 31 million persons on regular Social Security benefits plus another four million aged, blind and disabled persons eligible for supplemental benefits.

With the added payments, the check received by the average retired worker will jump $16 to $200. The average retired couple will get an additional $27 to $341. Maximum supplemental benefits for an individual will increase $11.70 to $157.70, and for a couple, $17.60 to $236.60.

In other economic news:

• The Senate Friday approved a $6 billion emergency package to provide an estimated one million jobs in the face of increasing unemployment.

The Senate's version is about $141 million larger than the one passed by the House and Senate-House negotiators will have to work out a compromise. But the final package faces an almost certain veto by President Ford.

• President Ford asked Congress Friday to extend the popular general revenue-sharing program for nearly six more years with modifications to allow more citizen participation and tighter control over possible civil rights violations.

• The nation's balance of foreign trade was a record $1.38 billion in surplus last month because of an unprecedented decline in oil imports, the Commerce Dept. said Friday.

Oil imports have dropped 58 per cent from a record high level of 285 million barrels valued at $3.3 billion in January to 119 million barrels valued at $1.4 billion in March.

Many oil companies stocked up in January to beat Ford's $1 per barrel tax. As a result, oil storage tanks are bulging with overstocks. But the recession also contributed to high stocks by reducing domestic consumption.

• Interest rates for government-backed and veterans' mortgages on new homes will be raised to 8.5 per cent, Housing Sec. Carla Hills said Friday.

Mrs. Hills said the interest rates will be raised Monday from the current 8 per cent to help "poor people" sell their houses.

• Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz said Friday he doubts farmers will make good on threats to produce less this summer in an attempt to force up the prices of their crops.

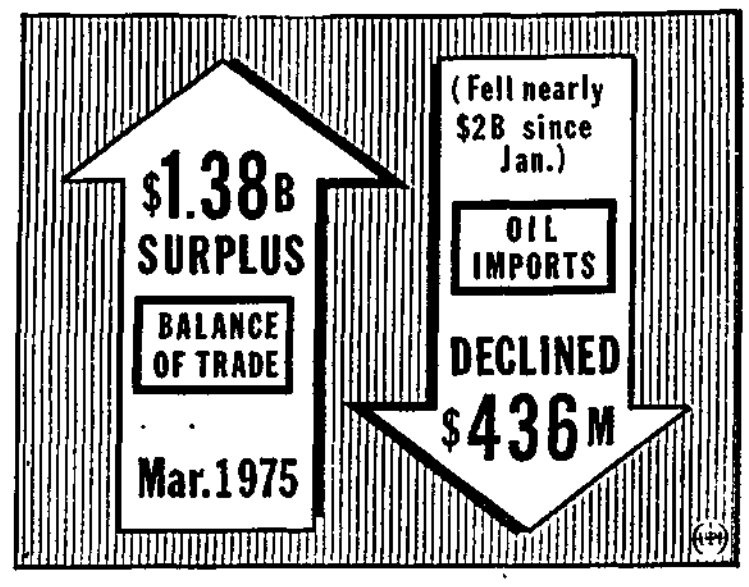
But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, reporting he was being "summoned — not invited, but summoned" home to Minnesota to meet with angry farmers, told Butz he may be misjudging their anger and determination.

"I have never in my life run into such antagonism, resistance and bitterness," Humphrey said.

Butz said it is too late for farmers to carry out pledges made at farm meetings all over the Midwest this spring to curtail production by 5 to 10 per cent. Farmers already have purchased seed and fertilizer and spring plowing is under way, he said.

• Soaring unemployment apparently is having little effect in restraining union demands for wage increases, according to a Labor Dept. report.

The department said that under major union contracts negotiated during the first quarter of the year, wages for the first year of the pacts averaged an increase of 12.5 per cent. For the life of the contracts, the increases averaged 7.7 per cent.



Sihanouk named Cambodia head

by United Press International

Cambodia's new Khmer Rouge regime announced Friday that Prince Norodom Sihanouk would be its chief of state for life. It also said all Cambodian diplomats serving abroad would be fired and replaced.

Also Friday, Canada recognized the Khmer Rouge regime as the new government.

Prince Sihanouk, who was ousted in a coup by the forces of Marshal Lon Nol in 1970, has been living in exile in Peking. Lon Nol left Cambodia shortly before the Khmer Rouge rebel forces captured Phnom Penh and is now in Hawaii.

The Phnom Penh broadcast said Penn Nouth would remain as premier of the National Union government and Khieu Samphan deputy premier and commander in chief of the armed forces.

Penn Nouth is regarded as largely a figurehead. He is reported to be in poor health in Peking.

Sihanouk has said that Samphan, a Communist, would be in charge of the government.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of Canada said the Royal Government of National Union of Cambodia appeared to be in firm control of the country and Canada was thus recognizing it as the sole legal government.

"The Canadian government is gratified that the long years of bloodshed and human suffering can now come to an end," he said. Canada and Cambodia never have had diplomatic relations "and the question of possible diplomatic relations in the future is being left in abeyance at the present time."

ST. LOUIS patrolman Michael Clark was doing his best to keep rush-hour traffic moving, but there's always a dawdler. Clark sizes up the situation, points a menacing finger and might be saying, "This way, please."

FBI nabs drunken hijacker in Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — An apparently drunken hijacker with a brown paper bag he claimed was a bomb tried to commandeer a jetliner with 67 persons aboard Friday night, but he wound up alone in the plane, holding the bag and waiting for the FBI.

The fiasco aboard United Airlines Flight 344, bound from Raleigh, N.C., to Newark, N.J., began over Washington and ended on an unused runway in Atlanta less than two hours later.

Spokesmen for United said the man produced a brown paper bag, told a stewardess it held nitroglycerin, and demanded to be taken to Havana. The crew told them the 727 jet would have to be refueled, and he ordered it down in Atlanta.

There, he told the 81 passengers and the three stewardesses they could get off the plane. The rear passenger door and ramp was lowered but in the confusion, the muddled hijacker lost track of the three flight officers.

The three would-be hostages bailed out — apparently using emergency exits — and the hijacker suddenly found himself alone. Three FBI agents boarded the plane and took him off. Airline officials said the bag held no explosives.

The FBI identified the hijacker as Frank Page Covey, 43, of Richmond, Va., and said he would be charged with air piracy. Shirley Woodard of Wilson, N.C., a passenger, said he was "drunk when he got on the plane and I saw him have at least three more drinks after that."

It was the first attempt at a hijack in the United States this year. There were three tries in 1974, all of them unsuccessful.

Thugs kill 15 in Mexico shootout

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Thirteen policemen and two civilians were machine-gunned to death by bank robbers Friday in a running battle in the residential suburbs of the capital.

Three robbers were captured, police said, and one was wounded. Nine others escaped with $8,000, all they could get in change from the bank tellers' cages after failing to open the vault of the Commerce Bank in Villa Coapa in southern Mexico City.

A bank employe told newsmen the robbers, armed with submachine guns and pistols, walked into the bank at 9:04 a.m. "and without a word of warning opened fire on a cashier and a policeman."

Red Cross ambulance driver Cesar de los Rios said ambulances picked up the bodies of 13 policemen and two civilians after shootouts at the bank and in neighboring Tlalpan.

Nine of the dead were killed in the bank shootout, the government news agency Notimex reported.

On hearing the first shots, five policemen on regular beat rushed to the bank and opened fire on the robbers. But all five were mortally wounded before reinforcements arrived.

Carlos Morales, an architect, 33, and Arcadio Gallardo, otherwise not identified, were the civilians killed by bullets that went wide.

The robbers fled in two cars. Police caught up with the getaway cars in Tlalpan and another gun battle ensued. The three robbers were captured there, police said.

"These people were out to liquidate every policeman in or around the bank," detective Rene Rodolfo Neri said.

He said the policemen, armed only with .38 caliber revolvers, were no match for the bandits' machine guns.

"The machine gunners started low and worked upward on each victim," medical examiner Dr. Alvaro Osmaya Flores said. "Everybody received at least four slugs," he said.

Neri said it was not known whether the bandits had any political connection.

Timer, on your mark...

Drivers pick from a noisy corral of diesels and head out to the obstacle course.

The wheels fell off?

The diesel engines speak a language of their own as they snort and growl through the obstacle course. They are herded and muscled through each problem by drivers competing among their peers for state titles.

The contest is the last in the state, with the best of each trucking company's drivers. From them, champions are chosen to represent Illinois in the National Truck Roadeo sponsored by the American Trucking Associations, Inc

Preliminary competition started Friday morning in the parking lot of the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel. The top drivers in each category will finish the ordeal today, accept their trophies, and prepare for the big contest in Indianapolis next August.

EACH DRIVER must snake his truck through a pair of narrow barriers, parallel park the trailer, back up to a simulated loading dock, negotiate a tight curve and bring his ride straight home — straight through a series of small balls that topple at the slightest touch of a wheel The judges even measure the driver's ability to stop accurately at the finish line.

Most drivers sport the uniform and colors of their companies. They watch other men until their class is ready, and then they walk to a long line of truck tractors to select their equipment Chevrolet, Ford, Mack, International Harvester, GMC — most of the mass production companies are represented

The rules are stringent and the competition is serious, because the drivers face the same circumstances every day on the road. A mistake out there could be more costly than a few penalty points.

Parallel parking is tough with 40 feet of trailer behind you.

Tough words are handed out by Emily Ehm during a spelling bee.

Frowns and stares of disbelief mark faces from both sides.

Pupils' spell broken

by JUDY JOBBITT

Faces tensed and palms perspired as a student reached into the box for the first piece of paper with one word on it.

The spelling bee began.

It was an odd match. The new spelling club at London Junior High School, Wheeling — one of few clubs in the area — challenged the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 administration to pit its top spellers against the students in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Only 11 persons from the administration office accepted the challenge, although many more students were willing to try. The students have sought challengers from other junior high schools and high schools, but only the London teachers and the administrators have accepted the offer.

ADMINISTRATORS showed more signs of apprehension than the students before the match began. With the language-arts coordinator, special-education director and primary coordinator on their team, they represented the designers of programs that teach students to spell.

"I think it's rigged," said Richard Wynn, special-education director, before the first word was dropped.

The administrators "demanded" to have the words before the contest, though Wynn charged foul play because Emily Ehm, London teacher sponsoring the club, refused to give him his own list.

The first round proved embarrassing for some.

The first word eliminated Trudy Wiedemann of the business office, when she misspelled "liason."

Larry Chase, self-renewal director; Esther Stanfield, language-arts coordinator, and George Galvin, music coordinator, also went down on their first words. Mrs. Stanfield put a hyphen in "intramural." "And I'm the language-arts coordinator," she said sheepishly.

THE STUDENTS, who number about 25, say they do it for fun, even though it's "very tense." As Debbie Tipping put it. "You hate the word you miss forever."

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wyan and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Roxanne left the field by grabbing the slip of paper with the word she missed and tearing it to shreds.

Rosanne Couston agonizes as the last student up.

Can you spell these?

Parks to lobby for state income-tax funds

by JILL BETTNER

Area legislators will be invited to attend a May 10 meeting of the Parks Legislative Coalition to discuss a proposed bill to give park districts a share of state income-tax revenues.

The fledgling coalition, organized by Elk Grove Park Board Pres. Lew Smith, includes commissioners from 75 park districts in Cook, Lake and McHenry counties.

The luncheon meeting next month at the Sheraton-Walden Hotel in Schaumburg is the first session scheduled by the group to meet with state legislators.

The coalition will be looking for support from the lawmakers, Smith said, for a bill introduced in the Illinois General Assembly recently that would create a park district fund of 1/48 of the net revenue realized from state income tax.

THE BILL, proposed in the House by Rep. Ronald K. Hoffman, R-Westchester and simultaneously in the Senate by Sen. Harris Fawell, R-Naperville, provides for monthly shares of the fund to be distributed to park districts according to population by the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs.

Smith said the coalition is optimistic that the bill will be passed, hopefully before the lawmakers go home in mid-July.

As it is written, the bill would provide state income-tax rebates to park districts in basically the same manner as they are presently doled out to municipalities.

"I would say this is the most obvious area where we could have success," Smith said. "One of the basic reasons why I wanted to start an organization such as this is because we've (park districts) been left out so often in the past."

The coalition also has discussed lobbying for a share of the money the state collects from the Lottery. Although the General Assembly has earmarked Lottery funds for schools, Smith said the group has not given up the possibility of obtaining some portion of the monies for park districts.

LEGISLATORS the coalition will invite to the May 10 meeting include Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, State Sen. Bradley Glass, D-Northfield; State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Skokie; State Sen. Raymond Welsh, D-Oak Park; State Sen. Harris Fawell, R-Naperville; State Rep. Richard Mugallan, D-Palatine; State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; State Rep. Theodore Leverence, D-Maywood; State Rep. Alan Greiman, D-Skokie; State Rep. Adeline Geo-Karis, R-Zion, and State Rep. Betty Lou Reed, R-Deerfield.

Also, State Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry; State Rep. John Grotberg, R-St. Charles; House Speaker William Redmond, D-Bensenville, and State Rep. Ronald K. Hoffman, R-Westchester.

Man pleads guilty to bond theft charge

An Elk Grove Village man pleaded guilty Friday in Circuit Court to a felony theft charge filed in connection with an attempt last October to cash an estimated $75,000 in stolen municipal bonds.

Judge Marvin E. Aspen set sentencing for Theodore E. Price, 47, of 100 Wildwood, for May 21 at the Civic Center, Chicago.

Price attempted to cash the bonds at the Schaumburg State Bank, but was arrested when bank officials became suspicious of the bonds. The securities were taken in a $100,000 Lake County burglary last year.

A woman of conscience

Margaret Mead speaks her mind

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

Make way for postmenopausal zest — PMZ, for short.

To hear Dr. Margaret Mead tell it, PMZ adds up to a great deal of energy and has been observed among women "in almost all societies."

Similar long-lasting bursts of energy may occur among men who have gone through the climacteric-change of life, according to the distinguished anthropologist.

Dr. Mead, holder of 22 honorary degrees, is curator emeritus of ethnology at the New York Museum of Natural History and an adjunct professor of anthropology at Columbia University.

She talked about PMZ and many other things during a conference held in New York before the National Council of Women of the United States presented her with the "1975 Woman of Conscience" award.

"POSTMENOPAUSAL ZEST is evident among older women contributing to executive levels — women of experience and wisdom," she said.

"Such a woman tends to be treated like a man. She is allowed to swear and stamp her feet. . ."

On the change of life that affects men, Dr. Mead said a "sociological climacteric" happens one day to many men around 50 who decide they aren't going any further.

"If a man has been vice president of a company merged with another company and is a vice president again and another merger takes place, and he's a vice president still — and 50, that's as far as he goes."

Dr. Mead speaks her mind on any subject.

WHEN SHE'S MAKING a point, sometimes her rosey cheeks turn a deeper red and her eyes flash a little more.

At 73, she's got plenty of PMZ.

Her hairstyle is the one she's worn for decades — a modified short bob, salt and pepper strands sticking out like tiny electric wires.

Her dress this day was a black knee-length one that fit like a tent. She's at that point in life where the battle of the bulge is of little importance.

Dr. Mead's views on a variety of topics, as she expressed them during the conference:

The Women's Liberation Movement. "Everytime you liberate a woman, you liberate a man."

ON FAMINE. "To women food is something to eat. To men it is a commodity and a weapon. There is no interest among men in seeing that food isn't eaten by rats. The men are out making black market on it."

On educating women. Called for education of women at all levels — in developed, underdeveloped, emerging countries. "So they can participate in the decison-making process."

Women versus men in the child-raising arena. Women nurture babies and raise them because they give birth — "not because they are best" at those jobs.

The babylift from Vietnam. Most of the children had families waiting for them in America, families making preparations for adoption over many months. The developing argument over whether the babylift was right or wrong is beside the point, according to Dr. Mead. It draws attention from the real issue — "ending the killing" in Vietnam.

SHE SAID AMERICA has been importing babies from everywhere for years and that this will continue so long as we have people getting married without fertility tests.

When the selection process began in the hunt for the 1975 woman of conscience, the goal was a person of national and international stature whose life personified the three major themes of International Women's Year — Equality, Development and Peace.

"That we should find her in our midst, one of our own, adds greatly to our satisfaction," said Mrs. Mildred Talbot when presenting the award to Dr. Mead.

Mrs. Talbot is president of the National Council. Dr. Mead has been a member for years.

DR. MEAD INTENDS to apply the $1,500 grant accompanying the award toward a trip this summer to Samoa. The visit will be the third return she has made to these islands which she first studied in 1925-28 while a graduate student at Columbia.

Her report on that experience, "Coming of Age In Samoa," gave Dr. Mead worldwide stature very early in her career.

She intends to write another volume based on field notes from her 13 expeditions to the South Pacific soon.

With the help of PMZ, presumably.

Ways to prevent birds nesting in your garage

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: You come up with so many helpful answers, we hope you can help us with one. When our garage door is open, the sparrows come in large numbers. Even when the garage door is closed, they find small cracks and come in. We love birds but not under these circumstances. —Mrs. Chris Hall.

I'm with you. Birds are fine, but not congregating in one's garage and making a mess. You can drape old nylon stockings filled with mothballs here and there. They don't like the smell, and the stockings look like their enemy, the snake. Also, you can string a bunch of foil pans across the area so that the slightest air movements make a noise. Or wait until they've settled down and flail the air, banging two sticks. Birds hate to be disturbed and look for another place to roost. A couple nights of this and you'll be rid of them — which ought to take care of the cracks through which they come in, too.

Dear Dorothy: My sister and I are in disagreement over how to store glass, plastic and china jars — kept for leftovers. I store them with the lids on. My sister says the lids should be left off, that they are more sanitary that way. who's right? —Olga S.

Not only is your way more sanitary but you don't have to hunt for the covers. However, I think I know what's troubling your sister. Covered jars do develop a bit of an odor — and the way to prevent this is to crush a piece of paper and stuff into the jars. If the jar was clean to start with, there will never be an odor.

Dorothy Martin offers one more simple way to get out the printing from flour sacks. After the sack is thoroughly rinsed of the flour, she rubs in some of the old-fashioned naphtha soap, rolls it up tight and lets it stand overnight — then washes as usual in warm water.

Dear Dorothy: We moved into a new house and a group of friends joined together to get us a handsome piece of black statuary for one end of our living room. It needs some kind of lighting and I'm told a "bulls-eye" fixture would do it perfectly. Is this something we can install ourselves? —Mrs. Ray Sachs

A "bulls-eye" does a great job of lighting pictures, paintings and so on, but it's no job for an amateur. We had a problem along the same order and, not wanting to get into a fancy electrical job, opted for one of those pole lamps on which the bulbs can be placed anywhere on the pole and the lighting can be focused precisely as needed. It's a far less costly answer than the "bulls-eye" installation.

Dear Dorothy: I was amused at the little column bit about calling your husband "his nibs" and wondered if you know that the "meat" of the cocoa bean is called "nibs"? —Kathy Sommers

No, I didn't know it. You've provided some new information, if I can figure a way to use it.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

May Basket

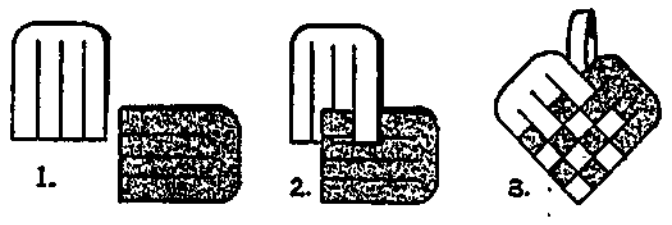
Our merry month of May was named for the ancient Roman goddess of spring, Maia. She was supposed to help new plants grow strong. It's a nice custom to tuck a few spring flowers in a May basket for someone you like on May Day.

Cut two pieces of different colored construction paper about 9 inches by 3 inches. Round off all corners. Fold each piece in half the long way. Starting at the folded edge, make three 3½ inch cuts in each. Put the cut edges of the two pieces at right angles to each other (figure 1).

Weave the first strip of one across the loops of the other. This strip will go inside the first loop, outside the second loop, inside the third loop, and outside the fourth loop (figure 2). Slide this strip up and weave the second strip in the same way. This time start outside the first loop, inside the second loop, etc.

Weave the third strip like the first. Weave the fourth strip like the second. When you're done, it will look like a heart (figure 3). Glue on a paper strip handle.

(Save these directions and use them again in December to make Scandinavian-type tree ornaments in Christmas colors.)



Collecting

It's difficult to tell if milk glass is old or new

One antique almost anyone can name on sight is the ever-popular "milk glass," also called white slag, or white opaque.

But trying to put an age on a piece is far more difficult. Many dealers simply refuse to handle it, for milk glass has been reproduced over and over; in fact has never really been out of production since its first popularity in the 1870-1900 period.

It is most difficult to tell if a piece is 10 or 100 years old, and all the "rules" are so contradictory that reading the books doesn't seem to help. For instance, I quote from one antique authority, Dorothy Jenkins:

"Nineteenth century milk glass had a translucent quality, and was white but the white had a blue tinge . . . The color, if it can be called that, has a skim-milk cast. Modern milk glass is much whiter, so much so that it is almost a dead-white; it is also a denser and often thicker glass."

NOW, FROM RALPH and Terry Kovel, also noted experts: "Old milk glass has less blue in it. The texture is less oily and the glass is heavier."

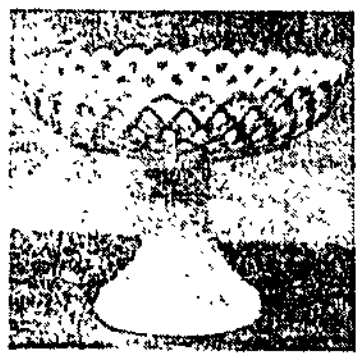
Possibly they are both right, for pieces vary so much from maker to maker and from era to era. Some old glass is light weight, some heavy, some blue-white, some not. Shapes are no help either, for most of the patterns have been reproduced in recent years. As the Kovels also advise:

"You must become familiar with the old and the new wares because the differences are slight. Millions of new pieces of milk glass have been made from the old molds; look and compare, and buyer beware!"

Small comfort for someone who has paid more than $50 for a covered animal dish, for instance, and found one in a gift shop some time later which looks identical for $8.95.

SO HOW SHOULD one go about collecting milk glass, if it should happen to be just the thing for the Early American hutch? If I were doing it, I would buy only from a source where I knew the piece had been in a certain family or in the possession of an older person for so many years. But this could result in mighty slow collecting. One might find an entire collection, however, which has been in a family for a long time; such accumulations do go on the market now and again.

Rather than take a chance on paying for antiquity that isn't really there, I think I might invest in some of the really beautiful new pieces, and be satisfied with the effect. The new milk glass comes in all the "old" shapes, is well pressed, usually marked (for future reference) and best of all, is quite inexpensive.



THERE ARE A few other collectibles I would also put in this "better buy new" category, including glass paperweights. New ones are beautiful as the old and a fraction of the cost. Unfortunately, such items which are copied so extensively can never be a good investment, to my thinking, for anyone would be suspicious of the age. The value of purple slag glass has suffered this fate also.

The picture shows a pierced bowl with patterned pedestal, typical of the wares produced by old companies such as the Boston and Sandwich Glass Co. and a famous maker of milk glass, Atterbury Glass of Pittsburgh, Pa. However, other companies such as Imperial Glass Company and Fenton have made similar or almost identical compotes, as well as most of the other old molds.

I don't wish to bring the wrath of milk glass dealers down upon my milk-white head, but most of them, I think, will agree with me.

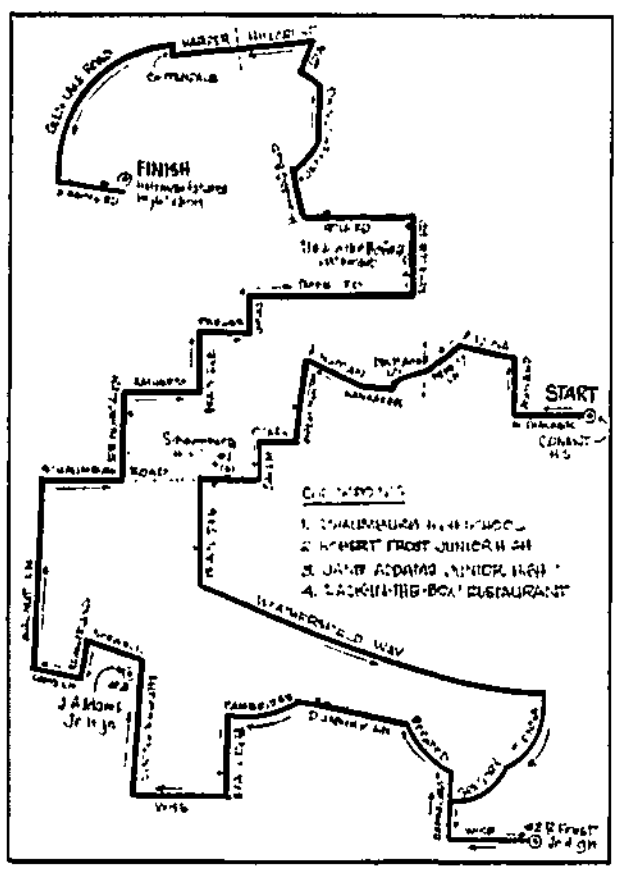
They March for Dimes — in 5 towns



Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg route

Volunteers will walk through Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg Sunday to raise money for the March of Dimes.

Marchers will start at 9 a.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights, for the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Des Plaines walk. Checkpoints with drinking fountains and restroom facilities are planned along the route, which ends at Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights. There walkers will be served free refreshments supplied by Burger King restaurants in Des Plaines and Palatine.

Marchers will start at 9 a.m. at Conant High School, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates, for the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg walk, which ends at Hoffman Estates High School. Along the route Jack-in-the-Box of Hoffman Estates will serve walkers free refreshments. The rock music band "Sahara" will play at the end of the walk.

Two 10-speed bicycles will be awarded on each walk to those collecting the largest amount of pledges. Each walker beforehand signs up sponsors to pledge a certain sum for each mile completed.

This year's goal is to top $21,553 raised last year by 1,033 marchers. Proceeds go to support more than 100 March of Dimes Medical service programs, research, genetic counseling services and educational activities.

For more information about the walk-a-thon, residents are asked to call 263-1296.

Taking stock in Uganda

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—At 10 a.m. Monday, at this city's Heinz Hall, an estimated 2,000 persons will attend the annual stockholders meeting of IBM.

Among these stockholders are representatives of the national headquarters of the Methodist, United Presbyterian, Episcopal, Disciples of Christ, American Baptist, United Church of Christ, Reformed Church of America and National Council of Churches.

Headquarters staffers of these denominations have banded together to form an organization called "The Church Project on U.S. Investments in South Africa."

FOR THE THIRD successive year, this organization of hierarchs will introduce a resolution designed to inhibit or eliminate IBM business in South Africa. (The volume of IBM's business there amounts to approximately one-tenth of 1 per cent, according to IBM headquarters.)

The wording of this ecclesiastical stockholders' resolution will be different in some measure from the resolutions introduced in 1974 and 1973. For the Securities and Exchange Commission requires that no stockholders' resolution may be reintroduced unless it receives at least 3 per cent of the vote.

Each year, the anti-South Africa resolution of these religious denominations has received less than the required 3 per cent. And last year, exasperated IBM stockholder Wayne Six asked why these religious stockholders showed no such concern about the governments of the Soviet Union and Maoist China, which have regimes far more repressive than South Africa's.

This interesting query reportedly evoked no response from the churchmen.

THIS YEAR, IBM stockholders might care to inform these churchmen publicly that IBM also is doing business in Uganda. For there is no such resolution pertaining to that East African country.

Conditions in this nation have been reported by the last U.S. ambassador to Uganda, Thomas Patrick Melady, now executive vice president of St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia.

Writing in the Jesuit magazine America, Melady recalls:

- "Since President Idi Amin took over Uganda on Jan. 21, 1971, more than 50,000 Ugandans have been killed."
- "I lived through the horror of seeing close to 50,000 people brutalized and expelled from Uganda because they were of another ethnic origin." (Indian).
- "While I served in Uganda, I met several of the widows of prominent Ugandan civilians slain by Gen. Amin's men. One widow, whose name I cannot reveal as she still lives in Kampala, asked me if 'Africans in South Africa suffer more than we do in Uganda?'"

Few rank-and-file Methodists, Presbyterians and Episcopalians could sincerely answer this in the affirmative.

HOW CAN THE churchly stockholders of IBM be concerned about South Africa — and not about the continuing horror of Uganda? One probable answer: the government of Uganda is not white. And Gen. Idi Amin is slated to be the next President of the Organization of African Unity.

Moreover, as the Rev. Carroll Simcox, editor of The Living Church magazine notes: "Our leaders have proceeded on the assumption that they know better than the rest of us what is our corporate duty in this matter."

Meyer harming his community

The actions of Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer following his reelection last week raise serious questions about his ability to perform the tasks of his office objectively.

With angry and irrational attacks on those around him, Meyer has interpreted his narrow margin of victory not as permission to serve again, but as a mandate for vengeance against his imagined enemies.

On the night of his reelection to a third term, Meyer summarily called for the resignations of those city employes who had the presumption to support his opponent. The anger of his attack and the haughtiness of his words were discomforting, but what really rankles is that Meyer apparently can stand no word of dissent, no competition for his kingdom, no honest challenge.

We at first dismissed his outburst as part of the heat of a political campaign. Time would calm him down, we reasoned, and the citizenry could forget an emotional election night outburst.

But Meyer has chosen to keep the rift between him and good taste wide and deep. Recently, members of a homeowners group divulged that Meyer had spurned their congratulations and chastized them for working for his opponent.

According to the two men, Meyer threatened their entire section of the city for ousting an alderman who was one of Meyer's cronies. Incredibly, Meyer reportedly said that area of town will get no support from city hall and further threatened to levy the area heavily with special assessments.

Roland Meyer

Our attempts to get Meyer's side of the story have been frustrated by his imperial attitude that he will no longer talk to an independent press.

He has refused to answer that basic question put to every person who seeks public office; how does he earn his living, where is his place of employment? He has retreated behind the shibboleth of officeholders who feel self-important; he claims simple questions about his employment are invasions of privacy. It is hardly a redeeming stance in a man who has so much power and influence in city affairs.

Roland Meyer is a perplexing man, and his record as mayor is filled with contradictions. In our endorsement editorial just before the election, we acknowledged the efficiency of the city he commands and the fortuitous circumstances that have drawn a solid tax base to the community. But we withheld endorsement of Meyer because, as he has amply demonstrated this week, he fails to understand the basis of public leadership.

He does not understand that the days of political dynasties are drawing to a close, that people want leaders and do not need politicians who bludgeon their way through life.

Graceless in victory, Meyer has revealed something about his reign as mayor. Arrogant toward the press and the people who pay his salary, he continues to do serious harm to the image of the community he has been chosen to serve.

'Athletes: oppose ERA'

If there is anyone who should oppose the so-called Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), it is women athletes. If ratified and the Constitution requires and the courts rule that women must be admitted to men's sports, then it must follow that men must be admitted to women's sports. What this will mean at the high school and college level is that boys who get cut from the varsity can switch over and compete for positions on the girls team. In most cases this will take away facilities and funding that has just started to open up for women.

As an example of what will become a national rule at the high school and college level, if ERA is ratified, was shown after an Illinois court decreed that when a school provides no participation for one sex in any non-contact, non-collision sport, members of that sex have a right to compete with the other sex.

Boys in Dixon (Ill.) High School decided to compete for places on the girls bowling team. The boys won four out of five places on the team and at the I.H.S.A. girls state bowling tournament in Peoria, the Dixon "boys" walked off with the "girls" state championship. As one paper reported, boys have taken over and virtually destroyed a girls tournament.

On March 19, a Pennsylvania court ruled to permit girls to practice and compete with boys interscholastically, if that school receives any federal aid whatsoever. Is there any school that is not getting federal aid today? Following this ruling the Pennsylvania justice remarked, boys will have to be permitted to try out for girls teams and vice versa. Boys will surpass girls in athletic performance and win a majority of positions on girls teams, virtually eliminating girls athletic programs.

Since Section 18 of the Illinois Constitution is similar in language to article I, Section 28 of the Pennsylvania Constitution it can be concluded that women's sport programs in Illinois have a very dark future. Is this what our elected representatives, Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. Chapman, sponsors of ERA in the Illinois legislature, have in mind for women athletes? Is it "right" to plan the end of many excellent athletic events now held for women, under the pretense that men and women are "equal?"

Blasts food tax

Someone somewhere has got to convince me that food prices are going down. I agree with the editorial that we should eliminate taxes on food and medical prescriptions. This would be a constructive way of letting us know someone cares about the workingman's family who can hardly afford to eat properly.

When I reach the check-out counter each week (or should I say three times or more for milk, etc.), I could cry. The news tells me prices are going down. This past week I couldn't wait, til I got to the store, but again I was dismayed to find the prices, even lowered, to still be so high. What's a family to do? We eat, sure, but out of our bill money. Our budgets are twisted and strained beyond comprehension. High cost of foods, utilities, gas and clothing are "out of sight" for the average workingman's family.

Yes, we can look forward to our rebate next month. Still, what will it buy at today's prices? Ours will have to go to paying long-neglected bills or our children's much-needed clothing.

Our family has stuck close together in this recession-type year. My heart goes out to the man who isn't working and all those with low incomes or the aged living on social security. If it isn't easy for us, it must be that much more depressing for them.

Please, eliminate the taxes on food stuffs and medical prescriptions. I believe this, along with some lower prices, might be what we need to restore our faith in the future.

'I'll help Oakton'

I would like to thank the voters of District 535 for their overwhelming support of my candidacy in the Oakton Community College election.

My special thanks go to the many friends who supported my campaign with their efforts.

I plan to continue my efforts to help Oakton grow, to remain sensitive to the needs of all segments of our community and to help develop programs that meet these needs.

Happiness backed

To me, beauty is nice but happiness means more. Like the woman who complained about campers in the driveway.

How happy we are that we can go away on weekends after working five days a week. How good it feels to know we can afford a boat and a morigage.

I had to write to get this off of my mind.

Work and no pleasure don't go together.

Thank you for listening.

'Voters, wake up'

Voters of Rolling Meadows, "wake up."

Do you remember the old saying that "the pen is mightier than the sword?" Well, in the mayoral election just past, you people of Rolling Meadows had your chance to prove this. But, no, you didn't take advantage of your choice to pick a good man for mayor.

Instead, at least 45 or more people in my ward do not know how to use a ballot in the voting booth. Some of you voted for Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and others put down names of their friends living in other cities and towns. Some voted for clerk, treasurer and alderman, but at least 45 or more of you forgot to pick a mayor.

It takes a lot of hard work to run for office. I know, I helped in this last one.

If you don't know what to do when you vote in an election, ask someone at the polls to help you. And if you feel that neither man is suited for the post, don't go to the polls and make a jackass out of yourself. I helped count the votes in my ward so I know how many jackasses showed up to vote.

It's people like you who are going to make us all suffer for four more years.

McDonald nostalgia

I really enjoyed Karen Blecha's article on Ray Kroc and McDonald's. As one of the original workers at the Lee Street McDonald's, I could easily recall many of the items referred to in your story. It was an era of no prepackaged foods — we made things from scratch. I would get there at 7 in the morning and peel, blanch, and pre-cook the potatoes for french fries. As a high school student, I learned all aspects of the business. Mr. Kroc was always seeing to it that McDonald's was impeccably clean — a characteristic kept to even to the present day.

Even though I presently teach at St. Viator High School and now have students who work at McDonald's, I still remember the experience of those years. Mr. Kroc and McDonald's remain as a positive introduction to the work world. I even recall teaching Mr. Turner, the present president of McDonald's, how to fry french fries. Thanks for a little bit of nostalgia — a return to the 1950's and the original McDonald's.

A Vietnam question

Could 'third force' have eased conflict?

by DAVID E. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The current crisis in Vietnam raises the question of what, if anything, U.S. policy should have been toward Indochina in the two years since the signing of the Paris Peace Accords.

What that policy had in fact been was rigid, unswerving support not simply for South Vietnam but in particular for the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Many both inside and outside of Vietnam believed that support was a tragic mistake, particularly since there was an alternative.

That alternative, never spoken of by administration officials and rarely aired on Capitol Hill, was given a brief but largely unreported moment during hearings in late March by the defense subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee on President Ford's request for emergency military funds for Thieu.

Louis Schneider, the executive secretary of the Nobel Peace Prize-winning American Friends Service Committee, told the subcommittee the prospects for peace and reconciliation in South Vietnam rested with a serious implementation of the Paris Agreement, particularly Article 12 which calls for a "national council of national reconciliation and concord of three equal segments."

NGUYEN VAN THIEU

The three segments would be the government of the Republic of Vietnam (Saigon), the Provisional Revolutionary Government (the Viet Cong) and a combination of political and religious forces which supported neither side, commonly called the Third Force.

This council, which was to devise a political settlement, including internationally supervised free elections, never got off the ground because of Thieu's opposition.

In addition, the Thieu government began a crack-down on all neutralists or opposition forces, closing newspapers and jailing or exiling Third Force leaders.

At the same time, however, Thieu's opposition to reconciliation was beginning to be challenged by first force anti-Communists within his own ranks, most notably the staunchly anti-Communist Father Tran Huu Thanh who led the People's Anti-Corruption movement.

Thanh told Saigon newspapers the movement was organized as "the anti-Communist nationalist component" to make the first force "popular, strong and clean" for political action in the elections envisioned by the Paris Accord.

In his testimony, Schneider said, "The third force is able to play a creative role in carrying out this mandate (promoting implementation of the Accord) because of its unique position: people belonging to the third force have relatives and close friends in both the Saigon and PRG administrations. They have not resorted to armed struggle and are thus in a position to communicate to both sides without hostility.

"As mediator and reconciler, the third force can be indispensable in bringing the two sides together to restore peace and rebuild the countryside."

It appears, however, that U.S. policy makers chose to ignore both the existence of the third force and the growing discontent within Thieu's own first force ranks.

Well-stocked home a tornado necessity

by DOROTHY MEYER

Tornado season is here again, but I'm not going to add to the mountain of advice you already have about what to do in case of, because I haven't sorted it all out myself yet.

I know, of course, that I'm supposed to cower in the southwest corner of the basement, or maybe it's the northeast corner, but it doesn't make much difference because I can't tell directions anyway. It seems to me that the southwest corner is right and that it's the corner where the gas meter is. And I know where that is because the meter reader swears all the time when he barks his shin on the extra-long hunk of lumber sticking out from the pile left over from when we built the house.

However, if the local siren starts blowing, I head for the basement first and figure out which corner is which after I'm safely down there. Eventually I get bored witless, just sitting there watching the gas meter doing its thing, and I yearn madly for a cup of coffee and a cigaret.

So I dash upstairs, grab my cigarets, turn on the burner under the teakettle and hunker down on my heels to wait while the water gets hot. I'm not sure why I don't stand up straight because if the tornado hits right then, it'll blow me away no matter how I wait for the water to get hot.

After I'm down in the basement again and have enjoyed my cup of coffee, I usually decide this is a good time to start cleaning up down there even if I have to risk getting out of the southwest corner to do it. Luckily, the lights go out just about then.

That's when I remember I should have brought some candles with me, so I stumble my way back upstairs and in the course of locating candles I find a deck of cards, my never-fail flashlight and the transistor radio. Since candles remind me of the song about candlelight and wine, I also gather up a bottle and a few snacks from the refrigerator, figuring I might as well enjoy my emergency as much as possible.

Down in the basement once more, I set up my little survival station and settle down in complete comfort. Just about then I hear a roar like a thousand freight trains which is what everybody says a tornado sounds like but I wouldn't know because I've never heard more than one freight train at a time.

Nevertheless the sound makes me dive for the southwest corner.

It is a low-flying jet heading for the airport, which makes me mad, not because I wish it was a tornado, but because I have spilled my wine, upset my game of solitaire and barked my shins on the extra-long hunk of lumber.

The last time we had a tornado alert, Marilyn came home right after the low-flying jet flew over and she headed for the basement to find me.

And she said, "Why are you cowering in the northeast corner by the water meter?"

THE PAIN OF LOSING is etched on the face of St. Louis Cardinals' catcher Ted Simmons. He lost the ball diving after a foul tip and the Cards lost to the Cubs, 4-3.

Cubs dust Cards, 4-3

Steve Swisher singled with one out in the eighth inning Friday to score Peter LaCock from second base to give the Cubs a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was the Cardinals' fifth straight loss and the third straight Cub win, strengthening Chicago's hold on first place in the National League Eastern Division.

LaCock opened the eighth with a single off Al Hrabosky, the third Cardinal pitcher, advanced on a sacrifice, and scored easily on Swisher's hit. Winning pitcher Darold Knowles sacrificed Swisher to second but Don Kessinger flied out to end the inning.

The Cubs came from behind to tie the game in the sixth when Bill Madlock walked and Rick Monday, Jerry Morales and LaCock followed with singles to score two runs and drive starter Bob Forsch off the mound. But Mike Garman relieved and, though giving up one hit, stopped the Cubs rally with the bases full.

Cubs' starter Rick Reuschel set a National League record in the third inning when he made all three putouts at first base for the Cubs, beating Simmons to the bag on a grounder and taking the throw from LaCock twice to retire Keith Hernandez and Ken Reitz.

Osteen and Hose top Royals

Carlos May doubled home the tie-breaking run and Deron Johnson followed with a run-scoring single in the sixth inning Friday night to lead the Chicago White Sox a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Left-hander Claude Osteen, with relief help from Rich Gossage, recorded his first win as a member of the White Sox and extended Kansas City's losing streak to four games.

Bullets machine gun Braves, 115-96

The Washington Bullets blew out to a 42-19 lead midway through the second period over the Buffalo Braves and went on to clinch a berth in the NBA's Eastern Division finals by a score of 115-96.

The win gave the Bullets a 4-1 series victory and propelled them into another best-of-seven engagement with the Boston Celtics.

Paced by Phil Chenier's 39 points, the Bullets controlled the game from the start and moved to a 56-38 halftime advantage. The Braves rallied briefly in the third period behind the shooting of Lee Winfield and closed the gap to 13 points before Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes took command of the boards.

Releasing outlet passes with consummate skill the Bullets roared to an 81-64 pad at the end of three periods.

Tradition-packed Relays adds 43rd chapter today

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

The Palatine Relays is so old and so prestigious that local savants have trouble remembering when the granddaddy of Illinois track meets actually began.

"I remember when Merwin of Woodstock pole vaulted 12 feet and seven inches," said one oldtimer. "That was back in '35, I think."

"But I recall Libertyville winning it all the year before," countered another "townie."

"I guess this is the 43rd Relays," said meet manger Chic Anderson, Palatine's athletic director, although even he isn't absolutely sure.

One thing Anderson is certain of is that today's edition of the Relays will be the biggest and most glamorous ever. He and the district board have made sure of that.

After more than 35 years of two-class competition, the Relays will go back to a one-class system. And for the first time since the meet began (1933, wasn't it?), it will include female athletes.

There will also be a new event brightening the festivities. The steeplechase has been added to the card, giving each school an equal chance to capture points in a unique and exciting 3,000-yard race over waterholes and barriers.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the meet will be the legions of returning track talent on display when the Relays start at 9 a.m.

Defending co-champions LaGrange and Schaumburg will be back, along with tough, veteran teams from Wendell Phillips, Addison Trail, Riverside-Brookfield, Roosevelt, and Fremd.

Other local teams entered are Hersey, Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Conant, Hoffman Estates, and the hosting Palatine squad. In addition, girls teams from Wheeling and Prospect are expected to compete, making a total of 44 teams in both divisions.

Among the top individuals are three Schaumburg field-event specialists who captured Class B titles in last year's Relays. Dave Wodek took shot put honors and Scott Mielke was the champion high jumper. Both will be trying to repeat.

Their teammate Bruce Mahlig rates as the clear favorite in the pole vault with a season-best of 15 feet. The Relays record is 13-10, set by Mark Nelson of Deerfield in 1970.

Fremd's corps of distance runners will be among the favorites in the mile and two-mile races and Viking pole vaulter Randy Gray, who hit 14-1 on Tuesday, will be in the running against Mahlig. And Rich Sharpe, the defending Class A shotputter, is top-seeded for Fremd with a put of 56-4.

Chicago Phillips could be favored to take the whole thing. Led by supersprinter Eddie Hatch, the Phillips relay teams are among the best in the state.

Palatine had its string of eight Relays titles broken last year with the Class B loss to Schaumburg. The Pirates may be back in the hunt this year. Rookie coach Jeff Teach has his squad peaked for the Relays.

Back from last year's record-setting frosh-soph distance medley relay team are Palatine juniors Mark McCostlin and Tom Bailey. Also on hand will be hurdlers Rich Falbo and Eugene Mollenkamp, sprinter Bill Finlay, and distance men Jim Shaffer, Pete Kearns, Dave Horwath, and Bob Guthrie.

Hoffman Estates will be making its varsity debut at the Relays with a good chance to score some points. The Hawks are loaded with underclass talent in the form of pole vaulter Dave Paape, sprinter Bill DiPuma, hurdler Dave Lipko, and runners Steve Lind, Ed Elliott, and Sam Cox.

Hersey finds itself in a weaker position than last year when Larry Travis' Huskies finished third in Class A. Gone is the strong group of distance runners which Hersey relied on last year.

The Huskies will field an able team of triple jumpers and perhaps a potent combination for the hurdles shuttles, led by senior John Wozniak. But Hersey's versatile star, senior Jim DiLenge, has been hampered by a series of nagging injuries and probably won't be at top form.

Strong girls teams from Prospect, Wheeling, and Fremd will vie for the separate girls trophy when the meet begins at 9 a.m. Girls events will alternate with boys events throughout the meet, which will break for lunch and conclude with an afternoon session starting at 1 p.m.

Tight battle seen in third track Jamboree

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

A victory for Rolling Meadows in today's Mustang Jamboree Relays track meet would just about be the icing on the cake for host coach Joe Vitton and his Mustangs.

And if another team wins the third annual affair — like defending champion Niles West or West Aurora or Elgin — Vitton will be nearly as happy. There is enough talent scheduled for the 2 p.m. meet to guarantee a thrilling success at Rolling Meadows.

"I see about five teams with a chance to win it," said Vitton. "And I think we have our best shot at it since the meet began."

Aside from the hosting Mustangs, seven other schools will vie for the title — Niles West, West Aurora, Elgin, Barrington, Taft, Glenbard South and Lake Park.

"This year the team race will be probably the closest it's ever been," added the Rolling Meadows coach. "In this type of meet where four marks are recorded for each team in each event, you have to rely heavily on depth. And some of these teams are really strong."

Niles West's Indians captured last week's Lake Forest invite against a packed field and they come into the Jamboree at peak form. The Indians won at Lake Forest without taking a single first place.

Two of the top individual performers at Rolling Meadows will be West Aurora's Mike Stapleton and Glenbard South's Kurt Leslie.

Stapleton owns the best 220-yard dash time in Illinois this season (:21.5) and he has also clocked a blazing :09.7 in the 100. Last year, competing as a junior at the Mustang Jamboree, Stapleton popped a 43-foot triple jump.

Leslie has turned in a 4:30 mile and MAINE EAST DISCUS thrower Craig Franklin unleashes the full force of his strength Friday night at the Prospect Invitational track meet. Franklin was third with a toss of 138-7 as York's Rick Behlmer won with 149-4. York,behind three wins for Behlmer, captured first place with Maine West second.

State's touted entries in Arlington net invite

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

For a first hand look at the 1975 Illinois state tennis champion the place to be this weekend are the courts at Arlington High School.

Beginning at 8:30 this morning the 16 best tennis teams in the state start a day long battle for the championship that has, in the past, signaled the team to beat when the state tournament is played onthe same courts a month later.

This year's favorite has to be the Red Devils of Hinsdale Central, defending state champions for the past three years and a school that is quickly becoming something of a state championship factory.

Host coach Tom Pitchford sent his Arlington Cardinals into a meet with Hinsdale this season and was beaten soundly. He came away with this analysis of the Red Devils.

"Hinsdale has tremendous depth and the Staren brothers are two of the best singles players in the state," he said. "They could possibly meet in the finals of the state tournament."

Ed is older than Ted but the latter has gained size and maturity over the past season and may be better than his big brother, who reached the finals in the state singles tournament last year.

Deerfield will throw a pair of fine singles players into the brawl when Robbie White and Harrison Bowes take the court. Bowes' status is questionable, though, after a two month hiatus in Australia compromised his eligibility.

Arlington's Paul Wei, only a sophomore, will also have something to say about the singles championship.

Pitchford will be trying something different with his doubles combination of John Yeazel and John Wallner.

"We're going to experiment," he said.

Among the schools competing will be Barrington, who will be a strong challenger to Arlington's district championship this season, and Highland Park, who tied for the state title with Hinsdale in 1973.

But it looks like everybody, and with the top eight finishers in last year's state meet entered at Arlington everybody who is anybody will be there, will have to answer to the Red Devils when this one is over with.

At Maine West the Warriors will be hosting an invitational of their own, fielding such fine teams as Libertyville, Elmhurst York and Lake Forest.

Play will begin at 9 a.m.

York captures Prospect Invite; Maine West 2nd, Falcons 6th

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

The York Dukes took first place in six events, including four field events, to claim the team title in the Prospect Invitational track meet held in cold but clear weather Friday night in Mount Prospect.

In so doing, coach Joe Newton's York squad dethroned defending champion LaGrange-Lyons, which finished the evening in seventh place with a disappointing 20 points. York racked up 58 points, well ahead of second-place Maine West (47), Zion-Benton (33½), and Maine East. Lockport was fifth (26½) and Forest View came in sixth (23).

The individual star for the winning Dukes was weightman Rick Behlmer, who dominated the shot put with a meet record 57-10 effort and grabbed first in the discus with a heave of 149-4. Behlmer also won the Big Boy 100 in a record time of :10.5.

Behlmer, who qualified for the state meet last year as a junior but failed to place in either event, worked all summer on his form and power. Now the York strongman is in a position to challenge for state-meet points.

The Dukes also got first-place points from high jumper Tom Garafolo, who reached 6-4, but failed in his attempt to tie the meet mark of 6-5. York's Doug Debevetz won the pole vault with a personal best and meet record 14-6 and in the process he upset teammate Dan Larson, who came into the meet with a state-leading vault of 15-4. Larson was second Friday at 14-0.

Ron Craker of York took the final first for the Dukes by winning the mile run in 4:18.7, the top outdoor time in Illinois this season. Craker beat Maine West's Joe Paul by more than two full seconds. Dave Snethre of Maine East was third in 4:22.

Another outstanding performance was turned in by Ken Staggs, the junior half-miler from Homewood-Flossmoor, who passed Forest View's Steve Schellenberger at the top of the stretch and finished in 1:54.2. Schellenberger had taken the lead near the 660-mark, but the Falcon junior gave it up with less than 100 yards to go. Staggs' time, another meet record, is also the best 880 clocking in Illinois this year. Schellenberger ran 1:54.7.

The 330-yard low hurdles went to Forest View's Dave Matzl, who blazed around the track in :38.8, nearly a full second ahead of second-place John Whipple of Maine West. It was the fastest Matzl had ever run and placed him high on the all-time state honor roll in the relatively new event.

Maine West's Gary Brenner battled York's defending two-mile champ Bob McCarty and Brenner won in 9:27.9. Forest View's Darryl Robinson was fourth in 9:44.7.

Other winners were Maine East in the 440-yard relay (43.8), Maine West in the frosh-soph medley relay, Sal Parenti of Niles East in the high hurdles (:14.8), Mark Latham of Z-B in the 100 (:10.1), Eddie Campbell of LaGrange in the 440 (:50.6), LaGrange's Dave Kelly in the 220 (:22.8), Lockport's Jos Tucker in the triple jump (42-9), and LaGrange's Gary Herron in the long jump (20-9).

Tough relay teams from Niles North captured both the 880-yard relay and the mile relay.

Maine West's second-place finish was fueled in part by Scott Unger, who managed a second in the 440 (:51.8) and a third in the 100 (:10.3). Warrior Randy Van Vleck took a third in the 880 with a 1:57.4 clocking.

Aside from Maine East's victory in the 440-relay, the Demons also got a second in the 880-relay (1:33.3) and a fourth and a fifth in the 220 from Sam Rea and John Schmid. Bob Gaza of Maine East took third with a 6-2 high jump.

Forest View's Jim Vartanian took a third in the high hurdles (:15.1) just ahead of Prospect's Jim Wright (:15.3). Wright was also fourth in the low hurdles in :40.9.

The host Knights finished with 11 points. Triple jumper Jack Devero took a fourth place with his best jump of the season, 41-2.

Arlington got points from the mile relay team, which was fifth (3:31.6) and from pole vaulter Dave Jauch, who tied for fifth with 12-6.

Trout fishing in stocked lakes demands light gear

TROUT FRY, growing bigger every day since the Illinois Department of Conservation stocked them into Axehead Lake at Touhy Ave. and River Rd. in Des Plaines, demand ultra-light tackle.

For two weeks after the stocking of Axehead Lake by the Illinois Department of Conservation, I had heard nothing but raves about the fishing that ensued.

The Cook County Forest Preserve District lake, a mere 17 acres in surface area at River Rd. and Touhy Ave. in Des Plaines, is subjected to severe fishing pressure, especially on weekends when it's not uncommon for anglers to stand shoulder-to-shoulder around the 3,400 feet of shoreline.

But the little pond, which receives a stocked supply of rainbow trout twice each year, is a consistent producer of largemouth bass, bluegill, sunfish, bullhead, carp and an occasional goldfish in addition to its chief filling as a rainbow pot of gold.

After a limit-catching outing by a friend, I recruited fishing buddy Jim Sunagel for a weekday venture. The threatening overcast skies and increasingly northerly winds made us glad we weren't in an aluminum boat on a larger lake.

About 50 other early birds had lines in the water when we arrived at 10:30 a.m. A quick canvass of the area insured we hadn't missed any action yet.

Visually, one explanation for the lack of success by many of the anglers was their choice of tackle. Most were equipped for a strike by a 30-pound muskie. Stiff backboned rods, cumbersome reels, heavy-test monofilament line and oversized hooks probably gave them as much chance as harpooning smelt.

The 6-10 inch trout won't dare leave the friendly confines of the middle of the lake where the water is 30 feet deep to visit the shoreline shallows if they are greeted by such ineffective tackle.

Jim and I each grabbed our ultra-light rods with two-pound test line and no. 12 hooks, a morsel of lead for a sinker and a container of wax worms.

Despite our relatively late arrival, we found the entire shoreline, facing into the wind, completely vacant. Perhaps the others wanted the proximity of their cars, but hungry trout are going to inhabit the shallows where the wind will stir some food.

By setting our small one-inch diameter bobbers about 3½-4 feet above the worms, it insured us of casting into the wind with some distance. The stiff breeze promptly created a drifting sensation by blowing our bobbers back toward shore.

A few early casts produced some nibbles, but no takers. Once a fine drizzle began falling and making us uncomfortable, we hit a good concentration of trout.

The fussy eaters demanded that no bare spots appear on the hook, but with a limited number of worms and countless missed strikes, our bait supply diminished rapidly.

We landed four healthy trout within a span of about 20 minutes and spent the next hour fielding questions by frustrated fishermen around us.

Only one other fish was taken that morning before thundershowers and chilling winds forced the trout back into the middle of the lake, far out of range of our light equipment.

6 weekend boat clinics slated

The Arlington Market Merchant's Association will offer Northwest Suburban boating enthusiasts a unique, two-day event, April 26-27 at the shopping center at Kensington Rd. and Dryden from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

The Assn. has secured the cooperation of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 3-02 for boating information and services to area boaters. Featured will be three seminars at 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. on both days. John E. Palm, Auxiliary Officer in charge, stated that the seminars would be the S.O.S. course which is the Coast Guard Auxiliary introduction to basic seamanship for the small boat operator.

Combining colorful slides with entertaining narrative, this program covers legal requirements, pre-sailing preparation, underway duties and emergency procedures. Palm stated that sessions would be less than two hours.

'Buzzing' effect irritates bigmouth bass

Spinnerbaits pierce heavy weeds

..by VIC WATIA

Spring is considered the top spinnerbait period for largemouth-bass-fishing fanatics, who begin looking in shallows as soon as the water reaches about 60 degrees.

In the far South fish spawn earlier, but in other areas the spawning period for largemouth usually falls in the months of March through May.

During the spring months, bass fishermen begin looking for shallow water three to five feet deep near dropoffs. The shallows should offer some cover for bass moving in — such as stumps, stickups and brush — where the fish have a sense of security.

When the fish first begin moving into the shallows, they become targets for the spinnerbait, a lure shaped similar to an open safety pin. The lure has a jiglike head on the bottom in front of the hook and a plastic or rubber skirt that flutters when it is retrieved. The lure also is equipped with one or two flashing blades on top.

The design of the spinnerbait makes it an ideal lure to drag through heavy cover where largemouth bass like to hang out because it doesn't snag very easily.

ZEBCO'S THREE models of spinnerbaits can be buzzed along the surface, retrieved at mid-depths or bottom-bounced to find fish. From left are the single spin, double spin and twin spin.

The spinnerbait can resemble any number of possible foods for bass and also can be worked in a manner which irritates the fish and causes it to strike in anger.

Bassmen use a fast retrieve while working the lure in the spring. They find the lure effective worked just below the surface or ripped fast so the blades bubble across the surface in a manner called "buzzing." The buzzing technique, which often causes fish to hit the lure so hard they seem to want to destroy it, is best in murky water.

The novice should be certain the blades move freely when selecting a spinnerbait and the hook is honed sharp so it can be driven through the bonelike hardness of the jaw of a lunker bass.

If a smaller "buck" bass is caught in the spring near a bush, stump or some other structure in the shallows, the fisherman should work the area thoroughly as there may be a large bass in the vicinity.

Even if another fish isn't taken, the angler should remember thespot and return to it later in the day. Chances are another bass found the area just as attractive as the first fish did.

When working an obvious piece of structure, such as stickups, the angler should first cast and retrieve the spinnerbait past the structure on one side and then the other. If no strike comes, he should cast the spinnerbait past the center of the stickups and then retrieve it through. Often the strike may come just when the lure hits the center of the stickups.

Since the lure is being worked right in structure, a heavier line, such as 15 or 20 pound test, is needed to pull a fish out once it strikes. Light line under the conditions can result in lost fish.

Also, the line should be checked frequently for knicks and abrasions it receives while being dragged through structure.

If bass are found on the beds, often a slower retrieve is needed to pull them off. The spinnerbait first should be retrieved to either side of the bed and if the fish doesn't react, the lure should be dragged through the bed.

However, many bassmen prefer a plastic worm or plastic lizzard to try and get a bedding bass to strike. When the bedding bass hits, it is not doing so out of a desire for food, but to chase off the intruder. The fisherman only has a split second to set the hook on a bedding fish.

Fishing tourney at Chain o' Lakes

Area residents will get their first chance to wet a line under a competitive atmosphere next weekend during the seventh annual Shakespeare Midwest Open on the Chain o' Lakes, May 3-4.

The two-day tournament, which carries an entry fee of $25 per participant or $50 for a two-man team, will be conducted on all navigatible water in the Chain.

The deadline for entries is May 2 at which time a kickoff meeting will be held at the Antioch Country Club, Ill. 59 at Grass Lake Rd., at 7:30 p.m.

Boat pairings will be made that split the team members with other competitors. Contestants in the same boat will have equal time at the controls and picking their favorite fishing spot.

The teams will be fishing for largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike and walleye — all of which will be tabulated according to a point system. Bass will be scored at six points per ounce, walleye at four points and northern at two points. Each fish will automatically be worth 10 points at the weigh-in.

Those accumulating the most points over the two-day period will receive a variety of prizes, including cash, Shakespeare motors, rods, reels, boats and fish finders.

Cubs' Cove on Lake Mario will serve as tournament headquarters and the official weigh-in station. No live bait or trolling will be permitted although electronic depth sounders will be permitted.

Entry forms and checks or money orders payable to Shakespeare's Midwest Open should be mailed to tournament secretary Ed Miller, Box 172, Addison, Ill. 60101.

Knights edge Falcons; Cards make Mustangs 85th victim in a row

The battle for second place in the Mid-Suburban League tennis derby cleared a little Thursday when the Prospect Knights slipped past the Forest View Falcons 3-2.

"I figured we'd lose at the two first singles spots and have to win everything after that," said Prospect coach Jim Wright. "Forest View is tough at those positions and my kids there have been beaten before this year."

Dave O'Donnell and Greg Meyer put the clamps on Prospect's top two singles players for the Falcons' only points. O'Donnell beat Tom Fredericks at No. 1 by a 6-3, 6-2 score while Meyer topped Dan Hansen at No. 2, 6-2, 7-6.

Tom Wegner, at the third singles slot, and the doubles teams of Gary Thomas and Dave Hughson and Paul Mallon and Kim Bryja picked up the necessary points for the Prospect win.

The question of who's in first was demonstrated at Arlington where the Cardinals turned the Rolling Meadows team into their 85th straight MSL victim by a 5-0 score.

The Mustangs again played without their top singles player, Chuck Fischer, who is still nursing a twisted ankle, but even with Fischer Meadows wouldn't have altered the outcome.

Paul Wei dominated Fischer's replacement at No. 1 singles by a 6-2, 6-1 score.

It took a No. 2 doubles victory by Rick Stevens and Dave Mack to give Elk Grove a 3-2 meet win over Schaumburg. The improving Saxons had taken two of three singles matches with Gary Wright knocking off John Coffman at No. 2, 6-3, 6-2 and Steve Collins beating Ken Algozin at No. 3, 6-2, 6-2.

Bill Siebold won the No. 1 singles point for the Grenadiers with a three setter over Tracy Madon as the No. 1 doubles team for Elk Grove was also pushed to the limit for their point. Rob Soderholm and Bob Curran held off Drew Kron and George Puig 6-7, 7-6, 6-1.

The Hersey Huskies were pushed to three sets only once in a convincing 5-0 decision over Buffalo Grove. Bill Christensen put up the most resistance for the Bison, pushing Kip Hahn to the brink at No. 3 singles before bowing 0-6, 7-5, 4-6.

Keith Rayner was overpowering at No. 1 singles, blanking Jack Szwacki 6-0, 6-0.

St. Viator needed a tie breaker point in the third set of the first doubles match to clinch a 3-2 win over Carmel. Bruce Fischer and Pat Fleming won the match by a 5-7, 7-5, 7-6 squeak.

The Harper women's tennis team swept their first meet of the season when they walloped the College of DuPage Chaparrals 9-0 Thursday.

The white wash was possible when Maggie McCormick defeated Denise Dempsey 6-2, 6-3 at No. 6 singles for her first victory of the season.

Meadows trackmen shade Conant with nine firsts

Rolling Meadows grabbed nine first places to edge Conant, 76-67, in a dual track meet at Conant Thursday. Top performances for the winning Mustangs were turned in by sophomore sprinter Rick Sutton, who won the 100-yard dash (:10.4) and the 220 (:23.8).

Also taking first for the Meadows' crew were hurdler Jeff Ramas in the highs (:15.3), shotputter Jim Evensen (45-9), quarter-miler Fred Kocian (:33.3), two-miler Mike Scott (10:35), and high jumper Jeff Lund (5-10). The Mustangs won the 440-relay (:45.8) and the 880-relay (1:39.1).

The Conant Cougars, led by sophomore Brian Foss, captured four field events and the mile relay to make it close. Foss, who helped the Cougars take Mid-Suburban frosh-soph indoor honors in March, won the 880 (2:05.9), the long jump (18-7¼) and the triple jump (38-1¾). He also joined Bob Borczak, Tony Stompanato, and Mike Walston in the mile relay (3:40.0).

Stompanato, a soph, won the 330-yard low hurdles (:42.0), edging Borczak, who was second in the highs, too. Other Conant winners were pole vaulter Fred Niloff (13-6), discus man Rick Behringer (141-2), and miler Mark Kaufman (4:48.5).

Freshman Bill Baird took a second in the two-mile and a third in the mile for the Cougars and soph Pat Hagen was second in the mile.

Meadows pole vaulter Mark Harris was second at 13-0 and Evensen settled for second in the discus at 139-3.

Third Mustang Jamboree today a 9:35 two-mile so far during the short outdoor season. Leslie, too, is a veteran of the Jamboree.

It was at last year's Jamboree that Rolling Meadows' state champion shotputter John Sloan clicked for the year's longest put in Illinois when he reached 61-8.

Among the shotputters aiming at that lofty record will be Barrington's Ron Zilkowski and Meadows weightmen Jim Evensen, Rich Huber, and Jim Bluhm. Evensen will also be the top-seeded discus thrower with a season-best of 153-9.

The top hurdlers will be Bob Garrison, a state qualifier last year for Glenbard South, Scott Drazewski of Lake Park, and a trio of athletes from Niles West. Garrison owns top marks in the 120-yard highs (:14.7) and the 330-lows (:40.0).

Other top seeds are Mustang pole vaulter Mark Harris, Lake Park long jumper Ken Mauer, and half-miler Dave Price of Barrington.

Field events will begin at 2 p.m. with the running events starting at 3. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children and students.

SCHAUMBURG'S Berna Hoehn warms up for her first singles badminton match with Hoffman Estates Clare Dowling earlier this week. Dowling won 11-6, 9-11, 11-0, but Schaumburg took the meet, 4-3.

3 record-setting showings in Mid-Suburban track

It's getting to be a weekly occurrence — setting records in Mid-Suburban Conference track and field events. Thursday was no exception.

A trio fell by the wayside in distance, field and hurdle events. Meanwhile, Rolling Meadows maintained its first-place lead with Palatine staying right behind.

While the Meadows Mustangs were defeating Conant, 78-50, Conant Cougar Mary Ann Johnson was doing her thing in the shot put. The defending state champion heaved the shot 41-5½, breaking her own mark of earlier this season.

Meadows, which also defeated Buffalo Grove 91-40, was paced by Chris Gallis, who won the 50-yard dash (6.4) and the 100 (11.8), and Char Anderson, who took the 440 (1:06.1) and the 880 (2:36.6).

Conant's Debbie King was the only other double winner, placing first in the 80 (12.2) and 110 (16.6) hurdles. The Cougars stopped Buffalo Grove, 70-61.

PALATINE KEEPS PACE

Palatine matched Rolling Meadows' showing, defeating Fremd 72-60 and Prospect 67-61. Kathy Kost paced the Pirates of Palatine, winning the 80 hurdles (12.0) and the shot put (28-6½).

Prospect, which lost to Fremd 75-56, was led by triple winner Cindy Devero and double winner Trudi Rebsamen. Devero won the 50 (6.7), 110 hurdles (15.9) and the long jump (15-6). Rebsamen captured the 440 (1:01.3) and the 220 (26.6).

Fremd's Karen Bucaro took the 880 (2:43.0) and the mile (6:02).

BUDDENBAUM LEADS HOFFMAN

Laura Buddenbaum led her Hoffman Estates team to a 68-59 victory over Arlington by setting a record in the 80-yard hurdles — 10.9. This broke her former mark. She also won the 110 hurdles (15.3).

Arlington's Sandy Norman captured the discus title (95.3) and the shot put (29-1½).

HERSEY WINS PAIR

Although Hersey stopped Schaumburg 69-63 and Elk Grove 87-45, Schaumburg's Lipicia Rodriguez was stopped from breaking a record in the two-mile run — 13:06. She also won the mile (6:07.3).

Rodriguez' teammate — Carla Seltzer — took the shot put and the 440 dash as the Schaumburg Saxons won their meet with Elk Grove, 84-46.

Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 4:30, will find these teams in action:

Schaumburg and Conant at Wheeling, Prospect and Buffalo Grove at Forest View, Palatine and Elk Grove at Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows at Arlington.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Why not visit Shakespeare?

Did you know William Shakespeare turns 411 on Wednesday?

Now is the time to pay homage to the immortal bard by visiting the statue of William Shakespeare in Lincoln Park at the foot of Belden Avenue between Lincoln Park West and Stockton Drive.

Unveiled on April 23, 1894, the statue was the posthumous gift of financier Samuel T. Johnston who made his fortune in real estate and as a large shareholder of the Chicago City Railway Co. He left $10,000 for the "erection of a bronze statue, on a pedestal, of William Shakespeare in Lincoln Park.

American sculptor William Ordway Partridge was chosen to create the statue. His early reputation as a sculptor was achieved through his portrait busts of the poets, notably Tennyson.

To prepare himself, Partridge went to England to study the life of Shakespeare and the conditions under which he lived. He was assisted in his research by the great Shakespearean actor Henry Irving. Irving's costumer made the clothes which Shakespeare wears. It is said that this is the first statue to portray the bard correctly clothed.

Coincidentally, Shakespeare died on April 23 when he was 52. At his own request, he was buried beneath the village church of Stratford.

Mini-vacations only a day away

You can save time and money on these short family trips

by CLARE WRIGHT
Herald Travel Editor

For the family short on time and money, "mini-trips" are short but sweet vacations that break the routine without upsetting the household schedule — or budget.

Here in the Northwest suburbs we don't have to stray far from home to enjoy these "quickie" vacations.

In an easy day's drive, or less, you can retrace the steps of history while following Lincoln's trail in Illinois, explore Indian lore and Old World villages, visit a circus museum, winery or cheese factory in Wisconsin; take a riverboat ride on an old-fashioned paddlewheeler; or treat the kids to some of the most fun-filled amusement parks in the country.

Here are a few places to consider for "quickie" family trips this year:

● Springfield and Lincoln's New Salem State Park. The state capital city and the area surrounding it is "Lincolnland" and pulsing with history. In Springfield you can visit the only home Lincoln ever owned, the impressive Lincoln's Tomb in Oak Ridge Cemetery, the Illinois State Museum and the Old Capitol which was a significant part of many important incidents in Abraham Lincoln's Life.

New Salem State Park, the nation's third largest tourist attraction — Springfield—is an authentically reproduced village including 12 timber houses, plus the Rutledge Tavern and ten shops, stores, industries and a school where church services were held. All have been restored and furnished as they were in the 1830's.

Even the gardens and trees have been planted for historical authenticity and to recreate the original village scene.

Petersburg, two miles north of New Salem, is also rich in historical background. The boyhood home of Edgar Lee Masters, who wrote "Spoon River Anthology," Petersburg is the site of Oakland Cemetery where Ann Rutledge is buried. Masters, who is also buried there, wrote the epitaph for the tombstone of Lincoln's great love.

● Rockome Gardens is near Arcola, 30 miles south of Champaign. Located in the heart of the state's Amish settlement, Rockome is a 10-acre setting of a continually growing attraction featuring beautiful objects made of rocks, spectacular flower gardens and unusual handcrafted articles.

New additions this year include a beautiful peacock who won't stay in his pen and, at the Deer Park, a soft little baby fawn.

Attractions at Rockome include the Amish house; the Rock Shop, where you can see or buy rocks from all over the world; a basket shop; Indian Shop; museum; a tree house for the youngsters to climb up; the Lookout Tower where they can view all of Rockome Gardens and the surrounding prairie; and large bottle houses made out of bottles and mortar.

There's also the old one-room country schoolhouse, the blacksmith and harness shop, an old-time printing press and a candle shop.

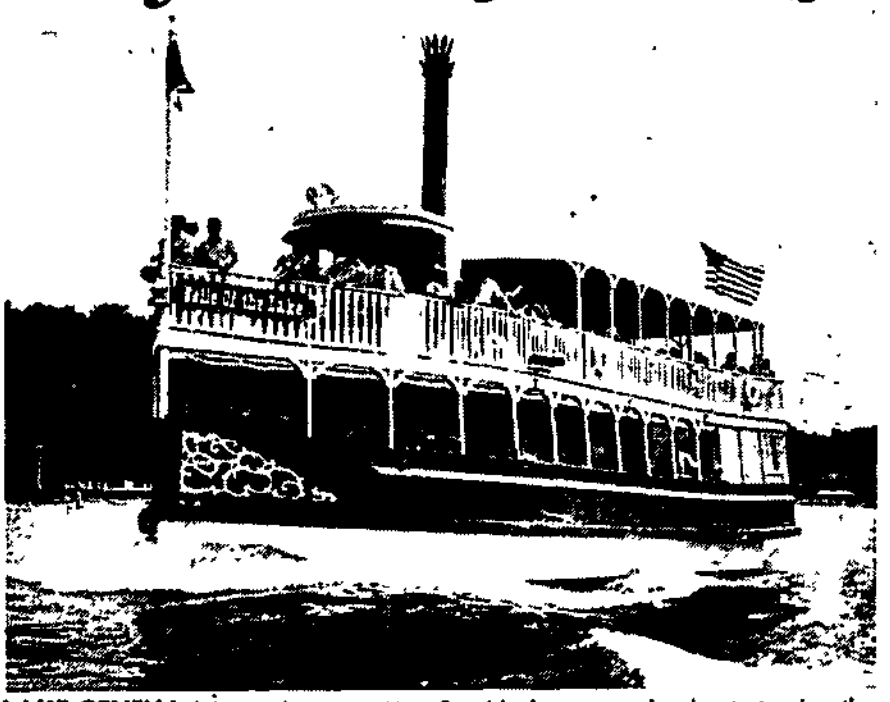
You can speed to Rockome Gardens on Interstate Highway 57, but once you make Exit 203 at Arcola, slow down because you are apt to see more horse-drawn Amish buggies than cars.

For a free full-color brochure and maps, write Rockome Gardens, Rt. 2, Arcola, Ill. 61910.

● Peoria—in the heart of Illinois—is three and a half hour's driving time from the Northwest suburbs.

Here you can tour Caterpillar, Hiram Walker distillery, Junction City, an 1850 replica shopping area, and Bradley University.

Take an Illinois River steamboat excursion on the Julia Belle Swain. Daily 1 and ½ hour sightseeing trips as well as moonlight excursions with dinner and dancing are available on this gracious paddlewheel riverboat that has three decks and can carry 400 passengers.



LAKE GENEVA boat cruises start May 3, with three excursion boats touring the resort lake a total of nine trips Saturdays and Sundays between 11 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Beginning Memorial Day weekend the boats will operate daily.

In Peoria Heights you can ride a glass enclosed elevator to the top of the tower for a panoramic view of the Illinois river.

The children will enjoy Glen Oak Park Zoo, one of the finest of its kind, and Forest Park Nature Center with miles of nature trails, flowers and a community of bees under glass.

● Wisconsin Dells is nationally famous as a family vacationland and year-round sports center.

With boat excursions beginning in April and Fort Dells open daily starting May 10, spring and summer action at the Dells and Lake Delton area is all set.

Fort Dells has added a horse-drawn trolley to tote passengers free of charge from the parking lots to the main gate.

May 15 the Midwest's largest full-sized roller coaster whirls into action at Riverview Park along with 18 other rides at this 10-acre recreation facility which opened last summer.

May openings at the Dells include the B & H Trout Farm and the Beaver Springs Trout Farm, Deer Park, Storybook Gardens, Lost Canyon and the Royal Wax Museum.

On Memorial Day the Mid-Continent Steam Train, a nine-mile sentimental journey, near North Freedom (18 miles from the Dells), starts riding the rails, while up above, the helicopter tours and seaplane begin the season.

The Edgewood Summer Theater opens June 6, and the Tommy Bartlett Ski, Sky and Stage Show is set for a June 13 opening, with the Stand Rock Indian Ceremonial beginning nightly full regalia performances in its outdoor amphitheater at the water's edge June 21.

For more information on Wisconsin Dells, including a new accommodations directory, a campground guide and color brochure describing family attractions, write to the Wisconsin Dells Regional Chamber of Commerce, Box 175, Wisconsin Dells, Wis. 53965.

● Lake Geneva is where you can enjoy a leisurely cruise of the historic lake on one of Gage Marine's fleet of modern excursion boats.

Three boats will begin tours of Lake Geneva May 3, including the Walworth II, one of the few operating mail boats in the country. The Lady of the Lake, Bell of the Lake and Walworth II will offer a total of nine trips on Saturdays and Sundays, between 11 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. weekends until Memorial Day, when the boats operate daily.

Two additional excursion boats, the Polaris and Linn, will offer two-hour cruises of the lake beginning June 15.

In line with the Bicentennial, a historical tour will be launched on the lake this season with a "you are there" theme. The narration, prepared by members of the Lake Geneva Historical Society and the Lake Geneva History Buffs, will present an authentic portrayal of Lake Geneva at the turn of the century.

A FAVORITE family vacation area, Wisconsin Dells offers boat rides, an amusement park and many other attractions that will provide many afternoons of browsing. In addition, there are numerous types of accommodations, including campgrounds.

They've been stung by the 'quilting bee'

by ELEANOR RIVES

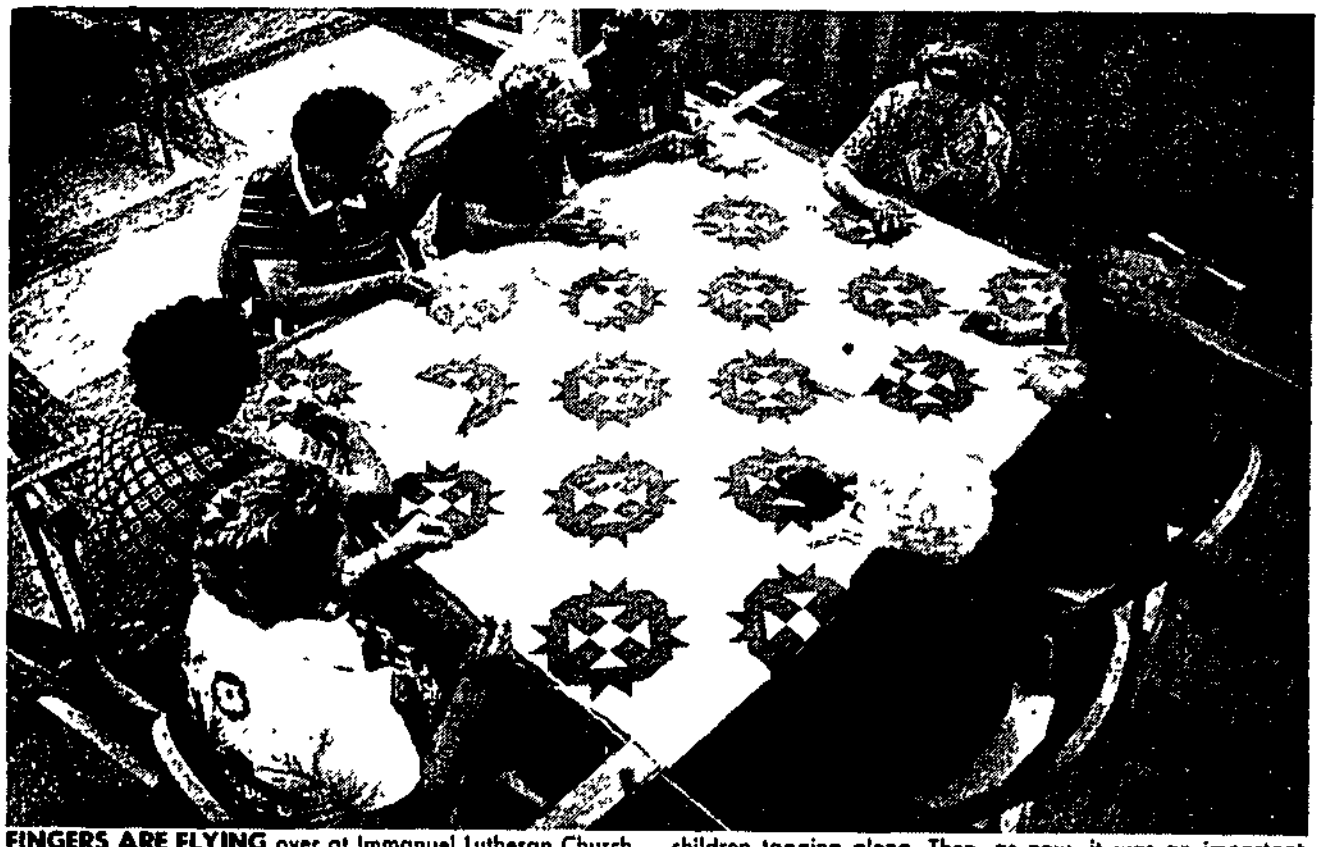
Quilting is a leisure-time activity at once tranquilizing and stimulating, social and solitary, old-fashioned and contemporary.

It turns a roomful of diverse personalities into a unified group or sends the members of that group their separate ways, patches in hand, needle and thread in readiness, pattern in mind.

Whoever coined the phrase "busy as a bee" must have meant a quilting bee.

Quilting knows no age, sex or season. It is as much at home in the hands of 4-H Club girls as it is with 70- and 80-year-olds; it has found its way into youth groups, women's clubs and senior citizens' clubs. Students of the craft include men, too, especially artists and craftsmen.

NOT UNCOMMON in the Northwest suburbs are church quilting groups. One of the oldest is "The Quilting Ladies" at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Des Plaines. A spinoff of the Ladies' Aid, the group was formed 75 years ago. It has been going continuously since then, one generation succeeding another.



FINGERS ARE FLYING over at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, as "The Quilting Ladies" try to keep up with a growing backlog of orders. The organization began 75 years ago when young women met in each others' homes, their children tagging along. Then, as now, it was an important social outlet for its members, with all proceeds going to the Ladies' Aid.

Once a week, nine to 12 women ranging in age from 70 to 85 gather in the church basement to spend the day doing tiny running stitches that attractively attach a finished top to a plain bottom and secure the batten between. Or they may start a quilt from scratch, constructing the top in patchwork, applique, embroidery or cross-stitch. It all depends on the order.

The women are knee-deep in orders, with a backlog of 17 quilts, coverlets and bedspreads. Sometimes three quilting frames are going at the same time.

Prices vary. A crib quilt made from scratch may cost around $40. Quilt tops that are brought in to be quilted and finished may cost from $50 to $75, depending on the pattern and how much work is involved.

"WE NEVER run out of work," said

● Green Meadows Farm is an 80-acre recreation farm in southeastern Wisconsin, near Waterford.

One admission price of $2 a person, with children under two free, covers all features of the farm and you are welcome to stay as long as you wish.

A farm museum located in a former granary in one of the barns is new this year and includes a large collection of antique farm tools.

More than 300 baby animals are ready to feed and pet at this working farm. Open daily for groups and families from 10 a.m. to dusk, Green Meadows includes two-hour guided tours of an operating farm, horse-drawn hayrides, supervised pony rides, campfire circles, picnic tables, nature trails, a pick-your-own vegetable garden and ecology tours for student groups.

● Galena is one of the best preserved historical towns in the Midwest.

The oldest house in this quiet river town is the Dowling House, built out of native limestone in 1826. It is authentically furnished as a home and trading post.

Other attractions include the Ulysses S. Grant Home State memorial, the Galena Historical Society, the Orrin-Smith house, the stockade and underground refuge used during the Black Hawk War, Grace Episcopal Church, the old general store, the Belvedere and the Galena Gazette museum and printery.

You can also take a sightseeing river excursion on the glassed-in twin paddlewheeler, the Lady M., or have a guided tour of an old mine showing early mining techniques.

● Nauvoo, historic town surrounded on three sides by the Mississippi River, a former trading post and Mormon settlement, is now the site of many restorations.

● Starved Rock State Park is on more than two thousand acres on the Illinois River between LaSalle and Ottawa. Starved Rock, rising 140 feet from the river, was the site of a fort built by LaSalle in 1682 and abandoned in 1702. The name of the rock is said to come from an old legend that a tribe of Indians starved there after being left on the peak by their enemies.

There are trails, bluffs, caves and canyons to explore. Boating, fishing, swimming, picnicking and camping are available.

Starved Rock Lodge resort provides many forms of family entertainment.

● Rockford — second largest city in the state—has a number of attractions to appeal to families looking for leisurely weekend browsing.

The Time Museum has timekeeping devices and clocks from around the world, dating from 2000 B.C. to atomic clocks for 2000 A.D.

Tinker Swiss Cottage, which duplicates a Swiss chalet, has 20 rooms crammed with priceless antiques and art work from all over the world.

The Children's Farm is eight acres of fun for the kids. There is every type of farm animal and some wild animals as well. There are pony rides and a ride in a horsedrawn wagon.

Burpee Art Museum and Burpee Natural History Museum are both great for several hours of browsing.

● Green Lake — near Fond du Lac and Oshkosh, Wis. — is a little more than 100 miles from the Northwest suburbs.

Campgrounds, motels, supper clubs and on-the-lake resorts, some featuring nightly entertainment, are now open for spring and summer business.

● Baraboo is a Wisconsin town that was the original home of the Ringling Brothers circus.

The Circus World Museum includes 15 acres and six buildings of circus lore, including daily circus parades, a display of circus parade wagons, steam calliope concerts, trained animal acts, side show, children's goat cart rides and picnic facilities.

Near Baraboo are Devil's Lake State Park and the Mid-Continent Railway Museum at North Freedom where you can take a one-hour steam train trip on a branch spur of the Chicago and North Western railroad line that once served the early iron mines and rock quarries.

Marie Fynn of Mount Prospect. Alvina Helfers of Des Plaines added, "We don't know pattern names — we just quilt!"

"Faith Quilters," about a dozen senior women from Faith Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, meet every Wednesday to work on quilting orders. Last year they completed 19 quilts. At this moment they are booked up till next January.

At St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, 16 women, age 65 to 85, spend a day a week quilting, with three frames going at once. An extra quilt is set up as a special invitation to learners who are welcomed with open arms. Currently there is a three-month wait between accepting and beginning work on an order.

Volunteers, almost all of them from St. Peter's, gather every Monday at Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, Arlington Heights, for an afternoon of handwork. About half of the 30 spend the time quilting. Led by Margaret Grewe, they meticulously turn out some real beauties to be sold at the home's Fall Festival.

FOR GROUPS such as these, the weekly get-togethers are an important social outlet akin to the old-time quilting bee. For Mrs. Rose Bromann of Rolling Meadows, quilting is a pleasant way to earn money at home.

Mrs. Bromann, 78, learned to quilt 47 years ago. She has made more than 100 quilts on her old-fashioned frame — for herself, her daughters and grandchildren, and for anyone who wishes to place an order. She specializes in cross-stitch and embroidered quilts from scratch, and also quilts finished tops.

"To me it is relaxing," she said. "It's satisfying to see scraps of material turn into something so stunning."

Once you have mastered the art of quilting, where can you go from there? To exhibitions, competions, craft demonstrations and fairs.

VIRGINIA OLIVER of Arlington Heights has been sewing ever since she was a youngster — for her daughters, her granddaughter, herself.

Virginia mastered such patterns as Lone Star, Tree of Life, Dogwood, Grandmother's Garden, and Robbing Peter to Pay Paul. Her peak achievement was Cathedral Window, a double-bed size quilt intricately designed with almost 5,000 patchwork pieces and representing well over a year's work.

She entered it in last year's Illinois State Fair and surprised herself. It took first prize, a blue ribbon in the patchwork category.

Plenty of places to learn how Anyone can learn to quilt. Just look around you.

• The Salt Creek Questers learned. Each member did a 9-inch square patch and Jean Comly, the inspiration behind the project, put them all together.

• The Dunton Quester chapter learned. In this case, the members did their quilts individually.

• Nine women of the Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club pooled their talents to produce a child-size quilt in red, white and blue calico print. A half dozen Extensioneers from the Mount Prospect senior citizens' club have already produced six tie quilts to present to the Chicago Christian Industrial League.

• At Northwest YMCA, Des Plaines, Debbie Farber is teaching students to quilt projects of their own — from traditional items to contemporary wall hangings. The 7-week course will probably be repeated in the fall.

• Quilting classes are in progress at Maine South High School in Park Ridge, and at Countryside Art Center in Arlington Heights. Both are taught by Sharon O'Shea, a young woman whose approach is to concentrate on quilting fundamentals in smaller items so that at the end of the six sessions students are ready to tackle a quilt on their own.

• A former Countryside quilting teacher, Marie Wierzbicki, just opened her own shop in Palatine's Countryside Mall. "Batches and Patches" is a pastry and coffeeshop with a special section featuring quilting materials and instructions.

As a special Bicentennial project, her previous students are all contributing to a red-white-blue, traditional-patterned quilt with every decade of the past 200 years represented in some way.

• Suburban park districts are aware of the growing quilting craze. At Palatine Park District classes, Dorie Schneider's quilters often include mother-daughter combinations, once included a mother-daughter-grandmother team.

• For residents of Elk Grove Park District, Darlene Greaves will again teach the basics of patchwork and applique quilting in classes beginning June 17. Her techniques extend to quilted pictures, wall hangings, pillows, in addition to the usual bed coverings.

Many other park districts are clamoring for quilting teachers in order to offer fall quilting classes.

Why wait till fall? There's a qualified quilter lurking behind the picture window of a home in almost every suburban neighborhood. Catch her now and start your own Bicentennial project.

Liberia to issue eighth proof set

The government of Liberia has just announced the issue of its eighth consecutive Proof set. Containing seven coins, the 1975 Proof set will be highlighted by a 42 mm, .900 fine silver five-dollar crown — the largest silver coin ever struck at the U.S. Mint.

Paramount International Coin Corp., exclusive worldwide distributor of Liberian Proof coinage, has just been authorized to accept orders for the new Proof sets until the official cut-off date of June 15, 1975.

The five-dollar silver coin portrays an elephant, Liberia's national animal, and a map of Liberia. The reverse depicts the nation's coat of arms. This expressive shield features a sailing ship, symbolic of the ship used to carry the freed American slaves who wanted to settle in Liberia in 1822. Inscribed in the banner atop the shield is Liberia's motto, "The Love of Liberty Brought Us Here."

COMPRISING denominations of 1 cent to $5, the 10-cent, 25-cent, 50-cent and $1 coin obverses feature the portrait of a young Liberian girl designed by Gilroy Roberts, former chief engraver with the United States Mint and designer of the Kennedy half-dollar.

1975 Liberia Proof coins will again be struck at the U.S. Mint. The one-cent coin will be minted in bronze and the five-cent through one-dollar coins will be minted of cupro-nickel. Seven coin Proof sets, including the silver five dollar coins, are priced at $29.50 each and limited to five sets per customer. Single Proof five-dollar coins (silver) are priced at $15.00 each.

by Mort Reed

They will only mint Liberia Proof sets and Proof five-dollar coins to fill orders received by June 15, 1975.

Inquiries may be directed to Paramount International Coin Corp., Englewood, Ohio 45322.

A blonde in age of brunette beauty

HOLLYWOOD — Maybe the trouble with the world is that there's a shortage of blonde movie queens.

Look around. Today's reigning sexpots are all dark-haired — Raquel Welch and Ann-Margret and Cher. Even Barbra Streisand. About the only honest blonde we have today is Connie Stevens and Connie says they're trying to talk her out of her blondeness.

Connie was at an affair recently and was seated at a table with Sue Mengers, one of Hollywood's top agents. After a while, Miss Mengers turned to Connie and said, "The only thing wrong with you is you should be a brunette." Needless to say, Connie stuck by her guns — and her hair.

SHE HAD TRIED dark hair once for a picture. She didn't like it. Nobody else did, either. She's one of those girls who was born to be blonde, obviously.

She was also born to entertain. She says she prefers acting to working night clubs — if she has a good part. But she's fortunate. Unlike so many actors who do nothing but twiddle their careers while waiting for that good part, Connie has her night-club work to fall back on.

Playing in the TV movie, "The Sex Symbol," — in which she more or less was playing Marilyn Monroe — was one of her great ambitions. She had long wanted to do it and she did. To that extent, the film was satisfying but it didn't lead to the big, gaudy parts she had hoped. Instead, the Hollywood producers still want to stick her in light, frothy comedies.

"I play comedy," she says, "because those are the roles they give me but basically I am not a funny person. Marlo (Thomas) and Suzy (Pleshette), my best friends, say that underneath it all I'm a very serious brunette."

SHE'S ALSO a very serious mother. She and her two daughters, Joely and Tricia, seem to have a good relationship. The girls, six and seven, kept running into the room while we were talking and Connie showed them a bit of motherly interest before shooing them out again.

They go with her wherever she works. She says they know her entire act by heart. And she calls them "good friends."

She carefully regulates the television they see, allowing them a few hours a day at the most. She tries to keep them away from the more violent programs.

She may not change the world but she's changed herself. She came up, she says, from "a rotten childhood" to affluence and fame. As a kid, she was fat and insecure and quiet.

"I WAS ALONE all my life," she says. "My problem was to find people to latch on to. I had too many decisions to make and ached for somebody to talk to."

Connie Stevens

Now she has her daughters. They're still only children but she talks to them. After they were born — they are only a year apart — she was out of the business for 2½ years, seeing them through their infancy.

"I did nothing for those 2½ years," she says, "and I didn't miss it."

But she couldn't stay away any longer. It's in her blood, this business of acting and singing. She moved back and forth — movies to Broadway, Broadway to clubs — and now her career is in full bloom again. She is currently recording for the first time in a long time.

Waltons' Erin just a normal 13-yr.-old

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mary Elizabeth McDonough is the sweet faced 13-year-old who plays the middle daughter of "The Waltons" television family and loves hamburgers, rock music, volleyball and television.

All things considered, that makes Mary a very normal little girl.

Mary never acted before she landed her role in the series four years ago. Now she is determined to be a performer when she grows up.

A NATURAL, unspoiled girl, Mary lives at home with her parents in the San Fernando Valley, sharing her bedroom with sister Elaine, 10. Her brothers, John, 17, and Mike, 19, also live in the rambling, ranch-style house.

Home is the center of family activities. There are basketball and volleyball courts, a large swimming pool and a barbecue patio for parties.

One section of the spacious yard is given over to a vegetable garden. The chief farmers are Mary and her parents who grow beets, carrots, corn and lettuce.

Mary surprised everyone last year by planting a single pumpkin seed which produced 10 plump pumpkins, enough for the family to make a batch of pies for friends and neighbors.

Mary McDonough's life could hardly be more different than that of Erin Walton, a Depression child raised in the South. The McDonoughs are comfortably fixed with all of the children, except little Elaine who is too young, attending private schools.

WHEN THE POPULAR CBS-TV show is in production Mary devotes three hours a day to classes on the Warner Bros. studio lot.

During the show's annual hiatus she attends a parochial school where classmates and teachers treat her as just another eighth grader.

Aside from hamburgers, Mary prefers natural, organic foods, including yogurt, fruits, raw and cooked vegetables. Mrs. McDonough fixes a packet of pumpkin seeds, walnuts, sunflower seeds and raisins for her lunchbox each day.

When Mary is working she generally reports to the studio between 7:30 and 9 a.m. California law prevents her from working more than eight hours in any 24 hour period.

If she gets home early Mary likes nothing better than settling down in her room with as many friends as possible to listen to her record collection.

MUCH AS SHE likes being a working actress, Mary gets a bigger thrill from being a cheerleader at school football and basketball games.

She cheerfully admits she is in the market for a boyfriend, but there are no particular prospects in sight.

Mary is 5 feet 6 and is teased about the possibility of growing out of her part in the series. But she isn't worried. Eventually Mary plans to attend college to major in dramatics and perhaps minor in cheerleading.

Please tell me how Bob Crane got started in show business and also how old he is.

W.L.

Bob Crane, who is presently starring on NBC's "The Bob Crane Show," was born on July 13, 1928 in Waterbury, Conn. He got his start in show business while doing radio announcing and disc jockeying on WLEA in Hornell, New York and later on WICC in Bridgeport, Conn.

He became a hit in Los Angeles in a matter of a few months, and his quick wit and timing at the mike led him into the field of television acting. Many of Bob's influential interviewees were so happy with the comedy talent of their host that they offered him acting parts.

Queen sacrifice gaining favor

This seems to be the era of the spectacular queen sacrifice. First Spassky gave the queen for two minor pieces in the breakthrough game of his quarter-final challenger's match last year with Robert Byrne and won easily against a not-best defense.

Then Kavalek sacrificed (or lost?) the queen for a knight and four pawns, and drew with Portisch at Wijk-aan-Zee, the Netherlands, in a game few would dare annotate.

But the sacrifice of all sacrifices occurred at Wijk-aan-Zee, when Sosonko (black) went wild with his minor pieces and rooks in an all-out bombardment of Walter Browne's king. The black queen was only one of the many victims of that savage battle.

The trouble started when Sosonko played 1 . . . BxN (at N5) and Browne passed over the immediate recapture, in order to attack the black queen with 2. B-KB4. (Diagram 1)

Naturally Sosonko could not resist 2 . . . RxN!! Nor after 3. BxQ, could he fail to bravely continue with 3 . . . RxB! (Dingram 2)

Now 4. PxR is hardly a winning try for white. For after 4 . . . B-Q6 check and 5 . . . RxB, black will have ample counterplay with two bishops and two knights for a queen and rook.

Browne instead played 4. B-K5, and Sosonko, with two pieces en prise found another eye-boggler, 4 . . . B-Q6! (Diagram 3)

A grand fight so far, but after 5. PxB, KNxP; 6. BxB, KxB (Diagram 4), the exhausted and perhaps giddy protagonists agreed abruptly to a draw.

But the draw was not too hard to accept after such a sporting battle.

Double spells toil and trouble

The Lightner slam double is used by practically every expert player in the world. It does have two weaknesses. One is that it may drive the opponents out of a losing slam into a winning one. The other is that when you expect to beat a slam if your partner makes his normal lead, you can't afford to double. The Lightner slam double asks partner for an unusual lead. You want that normal lead.

East's bidding of today's hand turned out to be very effective. He merely bid one heart the first time, jumped to four hearts next and then stuck in a five-heart bid over North's Blackwood four notrump.

This five-heart bid put a lot of pressure on South. If he and his partner were playing one of those special conventions to show aces after Blackwood is interfered with he could have shown his one ace. But obviously they didn't have any way to do this.

So South studied a while and finally jumped to six spades. If North had the ace instead of the king-queen of diamonds six spades would wheel in, but as you can see both East's aces were winners.

East was sure of this, but he was using the Lightner slam double and the double would call for a club lead. So he passed and took a mere 100 point profit.

Saigon leaders debate

$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

From Herald news services

The Senate quickly approved 46 to 17 the new $327 million Vietnam-aid bill authorizing a limited military evacuation if necessary but also urging President Ford to get all Americans out "forthwith."

The Senate passed the compromise bill only four hours after it was approved by House and Senate conferees, but the legislation faces days of further delay before Ford can sign it into law.

The house was not in session Friday and is not expected to vote on the measure before Tuesday.

Opponents to the aid bill made a last-ditch attempt to defeat it, berating the administration for its alleged failure to evacuate Americans swiftly enough and contending that Ford could divert some aid funds to military supply purposes.

SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON III, D-Ill., argued that military evacuation would cloud chances for a negotiated settlement with the North Vietnamese and raise risks of renewed U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

But the majority sided with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who said the bill provided necessary safeguards against such a prospect while still leaving Ford some flexibility for action.

"Congress has specified the ways that our armed forces can be used and yet has not tried to be an army officer itself in trying to tell the President directly how to do it," Javits said.

IN SAIGON, South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong said early today he would step down and turn over power to Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh if the National Assembly agreed in a formal vote that he should do so.

In a speech to the full assembly, Huong, 72, said the constitution prohibited him from handing over his powers as President to Minh, who many believe could open peace negotiations with the Communists.

The Assembly began debate on Huong's proposal after the president's speech. Huong succeeded President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday night when Thieu resigned after 10 years in power.

Political sources said Huong already has begun talks with Minh on ways to let the general take over as head of the Saigon government.

IN HIS SPEECH, Huong said he had offered Minh, 59, the post of prime minister but had been turned down. He said Minh, leader of the 1963 coup that deposed the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, insisted on taking over as chief executive.

Vietnamese sources dismissed a report that Huong was planning to send a cabinet minister to Hanoi to sue for peace as — in the words of one — "impossible."

They said the current cabinet is only a caretaker regime. In addition, the sources agreed, a political solution now can be reached only with the Viet Cong.

"We must negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, not Hanoi, and as of now the Viet Cong have refused to talk with the current government," said one politician close to the attempt to install a new Saigon regime.

Political sources said Huong's replacement by Minh could come as early as today, but the changeover likely would not take place until Monday.

Developer paid Atcher property taxes since '70

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT and PAT GERLACH

A major Schaumburg developer has paid property taxes since 1970 on the home of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, a Herald investigation has disclosed.

The developer, Lancer Corp., has spent more than $6,000 for real estate taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct.

The property, an estate that includes a large two-story house, two outbuildings and a swimming pool, is adjacent to the company's Lancer Park subdivision.

"Yes, we've paid the taxes," said Neal L. Hunter, Lancer president. "Mr. Atcher is going to reimburse us."

BOTH HUNTER and Atcher's attorney, James M. Guthrie, denied any wrongdoing. They said the tax payments were an oversight that followed a series of property divisions in the area.

THE HERALD disclosed April 5 that Atcher's land dealings in Schaumburg, including purchase of his home in November 1969, are under investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Atcher purchased the home less than two years after Lancer won village board approval of annexation, rezoning and subdivision plans for Lancer Park. He bought the home from Fred H. Groen Sr., who also had sold Lancer the property for its subdivision.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the $75,000 paid for the home by Atcher in 1969 was less than its market value. Atcher's records at Schaumburg State Bank, where he received a mortgage loan for the house, were subpoenaed last year.

JAMES M. GUTHRIE

The Herald investigation of property taxes on the home has revealed that:

• Atcher never has received a tax bill from Cook County for the home although he has owned the property since November 1969.

• He apparently never has requested a property division that would direct a tax bill to him.

ROBERT O. ATCHER

• Atcher never has paid taxes on the home.

ATCHER, 60, who did not seek reelection as village president April 15, has refused to discuss his real estate dealings with The Herald.

He was Republican Party candidate in 1970 for county clerk — the office that computes tax rates using real estate assessments.

HUNTER CALLED the tax payments an "oversight." "We just haven't got around to correcting it yet," he said. Hunter said he visited the County Building Thursday in search of records on the property but was unable to obtain them.

Guthrie, a Schaumburg trustee elected to the village board in 1971, said he was hired by Atcher in July 1972 to straighten out the tax bill problem.

"I just didn't get around to it," Guthrie said. "But every once in a while would check to make sure the property was not up for delinquent-tax sale. It is my fault."

Guthrie showed Herald reporters copies of two letters dated 1972 that Guthrie had written to Atcher about the property-tax situation. In both, Guthrie told of difficulties in obtaining a propery division so that Atcher would receive a tax bill or the house.

GUTHRIE SAID Atcher learned only last week that Lancer Corp. was paying the taxes on his home. He said Atcher wasn't aware of the payments until Hunter called Atcher last week and said Herald reporters had inquired about the taxes. At that time, Guthrie said, Hunter informed Atcher of the tax payments by Lancer.

But Hunter said he notified Atcher

A 'loaded' Bricklin— yours for just $10,540

by STEVE FORSYTH

Of all the questions to ask about the Bricklin, the newest production car on the market, potential customers seem to have one thing in mind — "How soon can I get one?"

William Kelly, president of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., Arlington Heights, is one of the 13 Bricklin dealers in the Chicago area, and he says he is fighting off buyers who want the only model he has on the showroom floor. Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg, also is a franchised dealer for the Bricklin.

Kelly said he has had six or seven offers to buy the car at more than its list price of $10,540 — if he delivers it now. Gritting his teeth, he said he has had to turn down the offers, but he is selling the cars on a "guaranteed first-come, first-served basis."

The combination sports-safety cars, designated SV-1, for "Safety Vehicle," will arrive at Kelly's and Faul's dealerships at a painstaking rate of two or three a month for the first 90 days, and buyers cannot order by color. The Canadian-built autos are in high demand around the nation, despite the absence of advertising, and Kelly says, "The car has had tremendous reception so far."

Kelly has had one Bricklin on display since Monday, but he didn't advertise it until Thursday. The lookers have been trickling in at a steady pace, and Kelly says up to 50 per cent are seriously considering buying the car.

THE BRICKLIN'S unique qualities have created a market even though buyers usually are not allowed to drive the car before ordering. Kelly said they do have a chance to drive their own model when it arrives and decide then if they want to keep it.

But none of that matters to the drivers who want the sporty model. They are ignoring the price tag, the details, everything — all they want to know is when they can have one.

Malcolm Bricklin has created quite a stir with his brainchild, which can withstand high-speed impacts better than other autos and also protect the driver and passenger. The car has a "birdcage" roll-bar assembly that completely protects the interior, and has Tough words are handed out by Emily Ehm during a spelling bee.

Frowns and stares of disbelief mark faces from both sides.

Pupils' spell broken

by JUDY JOBBITT

Faces tensed and palms perspired as a student reached into the box for the first piece of paper with one word on it.

The spelling bee began.

It was an odd match. The new spelling club at London Junior High School, Wheeling — one of few clubs in the area — challenged the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 administration to pit its top spellers against the students in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Only 11 persons from the administration office accepted the challenge, although many more students were willing to try. The students have sought challengers from other junior high schools and high schools, but only the London teachers and the administrators have accepted the offer.

ADMINISTRATORS showed more signs of apprehension than the students before the match began. With the language-arts coordinator, special-education director and primary coordinator on their team, they represented the designers of programs that teach students to spell.

"I think it's rigged," said Richard Wynn, special-education director, before the first word was dropped.

The administrators "demanded" to have the words before the contest, though Wynn charged foul play because Emily Ehm, London teacher sponsoring the club, refused to give him his own list.

The first round proved embarrassing for some.

The first word eliminated Trudy Wiedemann of the business office, when she misspelled "liason."

Larry Chase, self-renewal director; Esther Stanfield, language-arts coordinator, and George Galvin, music coordinator, also went down on their first words. Mrs. Stanfield put a hyphen in "intramural." "And I'm the language-arts coordinator," she said sheepishly.

THE STUDENTS, who number about 25, say they do it for fun, even though it's "very tense." As Debbie Tipping put it. "You hate the word you miss forever."

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Roxanne left the field by grabbing the slip of paper with the word she missed and tearing it to shreds.

Rosanne Couston agonizes as the last student up.

Can you spell these?

Official bind? Can't get legs under desks

There is more than 36,000 square feet in the new Des Plaines Civic Center, but that does not seem to be quite enough room for all of the city officials.

Work crews spent part of the day Friday trying to find an easy way to squeeze a few more inches into the city council chambers.

It seems that for all the room in the $1.7 million six-story structure, the building ended up a few inches short.

CONSTRUCTION crews have removed drawers from the desks where the mayor, city clerk and city attorney sit at the front of the council chambers.

It seems as though the people who are supposed to sit there can't get their legs under the desks.

The same problem also plagued some of the aldermen who are seated in the first row of the two-tiered arrangement of desks.

That problem was solved by raising the desks several inches.

However, what still remains to be settled is the seating situation for the back row of the aldermanic section. There does not appear to be enough room for anyone to pass behind the aldermen when they are seated.

"We tried to slide the desk around a little to see what could be done," said Richard Fox of the architectural firm of Holms and Fox, who designed the structure.

HE DECLINED to comment on who might be paying for the repair work to the building which has been in use for one month.

"The mayor doesn't like it too much when we talk about the building, because it is the city's building and not ours," he said.

Behrel is out of town, but he told the city council Monday night that he is looking into the problem.

He also noted that some type of system will be installed so it will be easier to determine when the aldermen have their microphones on. The sound system in the old city hall had lights on each microphone, but the new one does not.

Behrel also stated the city's considering the purchase of cushions for seats in the spectators' section. Some residents have complained about the wooden benches.

Drug abuse radio topic

The scope of drug abuse is widening and moving toward youth, says the director of the Illinois Drug Abuse Program.

Edward Senay will discuss drug abuse and related social problems at 8 a.m. Sunday on WJJD-FM (104.3) with Morris B. Squire of Forest Hospital, Des Plaines.

The program is one in the public service radio series, "The Search for Mental Health," produced for national distribution by the Forest Hospital Foundation.

Charity marathon run

The Leaning Tower YMCA in Niles is holding a fund raising relay and marathon run Sunday to raise $10,000 for a multi-purpose electrocardiograph. This system will become part of the existing YMCA physiological laboratory. The purpose of the laboratory is to provide fitness screening and evaluation of individuals who are embarking upon a vigorous conditioning program.

Youth gets 10 days, one-year probation

A Des Plaines youth was sentenced this week to 10 days in county jail and a year's probation.

Associate Judge Francis W. Glowacki sentenced the youth, Douglas K. Wertepny, 19, of 715 Elizabeth Ln., after he was found guilty of charges of unlawful use of a weapon, possession of marijuana and possession of a controlled substance, police said.

Wertepny was arrested Dec. 6 by Mount Prospect police during a routine investigation of a parked car at 1050 S. Elmhurst Rd. The weapon was a 4-inch switchblade knife, police said.

$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Roxanne left the field by grabbing the slip of paper with the word she missed and tearing it to shreds.

Frowns and stares of disbelief mark faces from both sides.

Burglary suspect, 26, nabbed by police

A 26-year-old Wheeling man has been charged with the burglary of a neighbor's apartment and an armed robbery that occurred in Wheeling Township.

The man, Robert J. Thorel, 62 S. Wolf Rd., was sought by Wheeling police since Monday's burglary at the apartment of Jean M. Linder. Police said Thorel knocked a hole in his wall through to her apartment so he could burglarize it.

Thorel also matched the description of the man who robbed a clerk of $40 Tuesday night at the 7-Eleven Food Store, 11 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling Township, police said. The robber also left one of Miss Linder's checks at the store, police added.

Thorel was captured Thursday night after Wheeling Patrolman William Hoose, off-duty at the time, spotted him driving on Dundee Road near Arlington Heights Road. Hoos, having stopped at a gas station to call for more help, followed Thorel to the intersection of Hintz and Elmhurst roads.

WHILE THOREL stopped for the traffic light, Hoose contacted Wheeling Patrolman Gary Holveck, who was in a nearby gas station investigating an accident.

Holveck and Hoos stopped Thorel's car and arrested him. Patrolman Lester Aradi also aided in the arrest.

Police said they found a knife and two plastic handguns in Thorel's car.

Wheeling police charged Thorel with burglary, unlawful use of a weapon and possession of a hypodermic needle and syringe, which also were found in the car. Bond was set at $20,000 on all charges by Associate Judge Arthur A. Sullivan Jr. Friday in the Wheeling branch of Circuit Court.

Thorel then was turned over to Sheriff's police, who charged him with armed robbery in the 7-Eleven holdup. He will appear May 6 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on the Wheeling charges. The date for the county charges was not known Friday.

Four openings in softball league

Oepnings for four teams are still available in the Prospect Heights Park District's men's softball league.

The 18-game season begins June 8. The registration fee is $145 and up to 25 persons can be on a team.

Park Director Ronald Greenberg said interested persons should call the park office at 394-2848, as soon as possible. Teams will be accepted on a first come, first served basis. Greenberg said other area park districts have waiting lists for their leagues.

Adult tennis registration starts today

Registrations for the Wheeling Park District's adult tennis class will begin today at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

Classes will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from May 5-June 2. Two sessions will be held each day at 6:30 and 8 p.m.

Classes will be limited to 16 persons and registration will be accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis. A $10 fee will be charged and participants should bring their own rackets. Tennis balls will be provided by the park district.

Saigon leaders debate

$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

From Herald news services

The Senate quickly approved 46 to 17 the new $327 million Vietnam-aid bill authorizing a limited military evacuation if necessary but also urging President Ford to get all Americans out "forthwith."

The Senate passed the compromise bill only four hours after it was approved by House and Senate conferees, but the legislation faces days of further delay before Ford can sign it into law.

The house was not in session Friday and is not expected to vote on the measure before Tuesday.

Opponents to the aid bill made a last-ditch attempt to defeat it, berating the administration for its alleged failure to evacuate Americans swiftly enough and contending that Ford could divert some aid funds to military supply purposes.

SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON III, D-Ill., argued that military evacuation would cloud chances for a negotiated settlement with the North Vietnamese and raise risks of renewed U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

But the majority sided with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who said the bill provided necessary safeguards against such a prospect while still leaving Ford some flexibility for action.

"Congress has specified the ways that our armed forces can be used and yet has not tried to be an army officer itself in trying to tell the President directly how to do it," Javits said.

IN SAIGON, South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong said early today he would step down and turn over power to Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh if the National Assembly agreed in a formal vote that he should do so.

In a speech to the full assembly, Huong, 72, said the constitution prohibited him from handing over his powers as President to Minh, who many believe could open peace negotiations with the Communists.

The Assembly began debate on Huong's proposal after the president's speech. Huong succeeded President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday night when Thieu resigned after 10 years in power.

Political sources said Huong already has begun talks with Minh on ways to let the general take over as head of the Saigon government.

IN HIS SPEECH, Huong said he had offered Minh, 59, the post of prime minister but had been turned down. He said Minh, leader of the 1963 coup that deposed the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, insisted on taking over as chief executive.

Vietnamese sources dismissed a report that Huong was planning to send a cabinet minister to Hanoi to sue for peace as — in the words of one — "impossible."

They said the current cabinet is only a caretaker regime. In addition, the sources agreed, a political solution now can be reached only with the Viet Cong.

"We must negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, not Hanoi, and as of now the Viet Cong have refused to talk with the current government," said one politician close to the attempt to install a new Saigon regime.

Political sources said Huong's replacement by Minh could come as early as today, but the changeover likely would not take place until Monday.

Developer paid Atcher property taxes since '70

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT and PAT GERLACH

A major Schaumburg developer has paid property taxes since 1970 on the home of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, a Herald investigation has disclosed.

The developer, Lancer Corp., has spent more than $6,000 for real estate taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct.

The property, an estate that includes a large two-story house, two outbuildings and a swimming pool, is adjacent to the company's Lancer Park subdivision.

"Yes, we've paid the taxes," said Neal L. Hunter, Lancer president. "Mr. Atcher is going to reimburse us."

BOTH HUNTER and Atcher's attorney, James M. Guthrie, denied any wrongdoing. They said the tax payments were an oversight that followed a series of property divisions in the area.

THE HERALD disclosed April 5 that Atcher's land dealings in Schaumburg, including purchase of his home in November 1969, are under investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Atcher purchased the home less than two years after Lancer won village board approval of annexation, rezoning and subdivision plans for Lancer Park. He bought the home from Fred H. Groen Sr., who also had sold Lancer the property for its subdivision.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the $75,000 paid for the home by Atcher in 1969 was less than its market value. Atcher's records at Schaumburg State Bank, where he received a mortgage loan for the house, were subpoenaed last year.

JAMES M. GUTHRIE

ROBERT O. ATCHER

The Herald investigation of property taxes on the home has revealed that:

- Atcher never has received a tax bill from Cook County for the home although he has owned the property since November 1969.
- He apparently never has requested a property division that would direct a tax bill to him.
- Atcher never has paid taxes on the home.

ATCHER, 60, who did not seek reelection as village president April 15, has refused to discuss his real estate dealings with The Herald.

He was Republican Party candidate in 1970 for county clerk — the office that computes tax rates using real estate assessments.

HUNTER CALLED the tax payments an "oversight." "We just haven't got around to correcting it yet," he said. Hunter said he visited the County Building Thursday in search of records on the property but was unable to obtain them.

Guthrie, a Schaumburg trustee elected to the village board in 1971, said he was hired by Atcher in July 1972 to straighten out the tax bill problem.

"I just didn't get around to it," Guthrie said. "But every once in a while would check to make sure the property was not up for delinquent-tax sale. It is my fault."

Guthrie showed Herald reporters copies of two letters dated 1972 that Guthrie had written to Atcher about the property-tax situation. In both, Guthrie told of difficulties in obtaining a propery division so that Atcher would receive a tax bill or the house.

GUTHRIE SAID Atcher learned only last week that Lancer Corp. was paying the taxes on his home. He said Atcher wasn't aware of the payments until Hunter called Atcher last week and said Herald reporters had inquired about the taxes. At that time, Guthrie said, Hunter informed Atcher of the tax payments by Lancer.

But Hunter said he notified Atcher

A 'loaded' Bricklin— yours for just $10,540

by STEVE FORSYTH

Of all the questions to ask about the Bricklin, the newest production car on the market, potential customers seem to have one thing in mind — "How soon can I get one?"

William Kelly, president of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., Arlington Heights, is one of the 13 Bricklin dealers in the Chicago area, and he says he is fighting off buyers who want the only model he has on the showroom floor. Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg, also is a franchised dealer for the Bricklin.

Kelly said he has had six or seven offers to buy the car at more than its list price of $10,540 — if he delivers it now. Gritting his teeth, he said he has had to turn down the offers, but he is selling the cars on a "guaranteed first-come, first-served basis."

The combination sports-safety cars, designated SV-1, for "Safety Vehicle," will arrive at Kelly's and Faul's dealerships at a painstaking rate of two or three a month for the first 90 days, and buyers cannot order by color. The Canadian-built autos are in high demand around the nation, despite the absence of advertising, and Kelly says, "The car has had tremendous reception so far."

Kelly has had one Bricklin on display since Monday, but he didn't advertise it until Thursday. The lookers have been trickling in at a steady pace, and Kelly says up to 50 per cent are seriously considering buying the car.

THE BRICKLIN'S unique qualities have created a market even though buyers usually are not allowed to drive the car before ordering. Kelly said they do have a chance to drive their own model when it arrives and decide then if they want to keep it.

But none of that matters to the drivers who want the sporty model. They are ignoring the price tag, the details, everything — all they want to know is when they can have one.

Malcolm Bricklin has created quite a stir with his brainchild, which can withstand high-speed impacts better than other autos and also protect the driver and passenger. The car has a "birdcage" roll-bar assembly that completely protects the interior, and has

by JUDY JOBBITT

Faces tensed and palms perspired as a student reached into the box for the first piece of paper with one word on it.

The spelling bee began.

It was an odd match. The new spelling club at London Junior High School, Wheeling — one of few clubs in the area — challenged the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 administration to pit its top spellers against the students in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Only 11 persons from the administration office accepted the challenge, although many more students were willing to try. The students have sought challengers from other junior high schools and high schools, but only the London teachers and the administrators have accepted the offer.

ADMINISTRATORS showed more signs of apprehension than the students before the match began. With the language-arts coordinator, special-education director and primary coordinator on their team, they represented the designers of programs that teach students to spell.

"I think it's rigged," said Richard Wynn, special-education director, before the first word was dropped.

The administrators "demanded" to have the words before the contest, though Wynn charged foul play because Emily Ehm, London teacher sponsoring the club, refused to give him his own list.

The first round proved embarrassing for some.

The first word eliminated Trudy Wiedemann of the business office, when she misspelled "liason."

Larry Chase, self-renewal director; Esther Stanfield, language-arts coordinator, and George Galvin, music coordinator, also went down on their first words. Mrs. Stanfield put a hyphen in "intramural." "And I'm the language-arts coordinator," she said sheepishly.

THE STUDENTS, who number about 25, say they do it for fun, even though it's "very tense." As Debbie Tipping put it. "You hate the word you miss forever."

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

3 posts added to school's administration

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education has approved a reorganization of the district's administration, adding three new positions.

The positions of administrative assistant for special services and administrative assistant for staff/community relations, now held by It. Steven Stavrakas and Richard Wynn, have been eliminated in the reorganization, said Supt. Kenneth Gill. The two men will be reassigned to other district positions, Gill said, although plans are indefinite.

Their responsibilities will be primarily divided between two new assistant superintendents for support services and administration. A social studies coordinator also will be added to the staff. Administration changes will take effect July 1.

GILL SAID HE would like to fill the three new positions from within the district. The coordinator's job carries a base salary of $16,000, and the two assistant superintendent salaries are negotiable, he said.

Gill said the change is designed to relieve Marjorie Beu, assistant superintendent for instruction, and Associate Supt. John Barger of principal evaluation responsibilities so they are free for other work.

"The biggest change will be in John's (Barger) job," Gill said. Barger will become associate superintendent for planning, research and development.

"So many districts with declining enrollments have been caught off guard," said Gill. Barger will be responsible for charting the district's future enrollments, expenditures, building needs and goals, Gill said, a job Barger has been doing on a smaller scale due to his previous responsibilities.

GILL SAID THE over-all cost of the reorganized administration to the district will be a "few thousand dollars more." The district is currently budgeting $203,892 for its administrative staff.

In other board action, approval was given to an application for $118,595 in state funds to continue the district's bilingual education project. The district plans to spend $34,963 of its own funds to supplement the program next year.

Now in its third year, Dist. 21's bilingual-bicultural program teaches 222 Spanish-speaking students English as a second language as well as aspects of their Spanish heritage.

Scouts to aid recruiting of village blood donors

Several local Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops will canvass Buffalo Grove neighborhoods Sunday to recruit blood donors for the final drive the blood commission will sponsor this fiscal year.

Sylvia Bogart, a commission chairman, said the Scouts will pass out flyers with coupons attached that residents can fill out for an appointment in the May 1 drawing.

The drawing is scheduled from 4 to 9 p.m. at Buffalo Grove High School, 1110 W. Dundee Road.

A commission member will call residents who fill out the coupon sometime next week to confirm the donor appointment, Mrs. Bogart said.

The commission must receive 132 pints in the Thursday drive for the village to be eligible for free, unlimited blood replacement under a North Suburban Blood Center program.

All residents in Buffalo Grove and their families will qualify if four per cent of the local population donate a pint of blood. Otherwise, only those residents who have donated and their families are eligible.

Mrs. Bogart, 541-1620, or Carol Lauter, 541-4640, can be contacted to set up appointments.

Wanted: 1 baseball player minus a mitt

Buffalo Grove police are confronted with a super caper: trying to match up an apparently lost baseball glove with its apparently disappointed owner.

Patrolman William Fischer found the glove, described as brand new, near a curb in the 300 block of Bernard Drive, police said Thursday.

The owner can contact police at 537-4260 to claim it.

Developer paid Atcher property taxes since '70

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT and PAT GERLACH

A major Schaumburg developer has paid property taxes since 1970 on the home of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, a Herald investigation has disclosed.

The developer, Lancer Corp., has spent more than $6,000 for real estate taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct.

The property, an estate that includes a large two-story house, two outbuildings and a swimming pool, is adjacent to the company's Lancer Park subdivision.

"Yes, we've paid the taxes," said Neal L. Hunter, Lancer president. "Mr. Atcher is going to reimburse us."

BOTH HUNTER and Atcher's attorney, James M. Guthrie, denied any wrongdoing. They said the tax payments were an oversight that followed a series of property divisions in the area.

THE HERALD disclosed April 3 that Atcher's land dealings in Schaumburg, including purchase of his home in November 1969, are under investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Atcher purchased the home less than two years after Lancer won village board approval of annexation, rezoning and subdivision plans for Lancer Park. He bought the home from Fred H. Groen Sr., who also had sold Lancer the property for its subdivision.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the $75,000 paid for the home by Atcher in 1969 was less than its market value. Atcher's records at Schaumburg State Bank, where he received a mortgage loan for the house, were subpoenaed last year.

JAMES M. GUTHRIE

The Herald investigation of property taxes on the home has revealed that:

• Atcher never has received a tax bill from Cook County for the home although he has owned the property since November 1969.

• He apparently never has requested a property division that would direct a tax bill to him.

ROBERT O. ATCHER

• Atcher never has paid taxes on the home.

ATCHER, 60, who did not seek reelection as village president April 15, has refused to discuss his real estate dealings with The Herald.

He was Republican Party candidate in 1970 for county clerk — the office that computes tax rates using real estate assessments.

HUNTER CALLED the tax payments an "oversight." "We just haven't got around to correcting it yet," he said. Hunter said he visited the County Building Thursday in search of records on the property but was unable to obtain them.

Guthrie, a Schaumburg trustee elected to the village board in 1971, said he was hired by Atcher in July 1972 to straighten out the tax bill problem.

"I just didn't get around to it," Guthrie said. "But every once in a while would check to make sure the property was not up for delinquent-tax sale. It is my fault."

Guthrie showed Herald reporters copies of two letters dated 1972 that Guthrie had written to Atcher about the property-tax situation. In both, Guthrie told of difficulties in obtaining a propery division so that Atcher would receive a tax bill or the house.

GUTHRIE SAID Atcher learned only last week that Lancer Corp. was paying the taxes on his home. He said Atcher wasn't aware of the payments until Hunter called Atcher last week and said Herald reporters had inquired about the taxes. At that time, Guthrie said, Hunter informed Atcher of the tax payments by Lancer.

But Hunter said he notified Atcher

A 'loaded' Bricklin— yours for just $10,540

Dealers getting big offers for sport model with '1980s' safety features

by STEVE FORSYTH

Of all the questions to ask about the Bricklin, the newest production car on the market, potential customers seem to have one thing in mind — "How soon can I get one?"

William Kelly, president of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., Arlington Heights, is one of the 13 Bricklin dealers in the Chicago area, and he says he is fighting off buyers who want the only model he has on the showroom floor. Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg, also is a franchised dealer for the Bricklin.

Kelly said he has had six or seven offers to buy the car at more than its list price of $10,540 — if he delivers it now. Gritting his teeth, he said he has had to turn down the offers, but he is selling the cars on a "guaranteed first-come, first-served basis."

The combination sports-safety cars, designated SV-1, for "Safety Vehicle," will arrive at Kelly's and Faul's dealerships at a painstaking rate of two or three a month for the first 90 days, and buyers cannot order by color. The Canadian-built autos are in high demand around the nation, despite the absence of advertising, and Kelly says, "The car has had tremendous reception so far."

Kelly has had one Bricklin on display since Monday, but he didn't advertise it until Thursday. The lookers have been trickling in at a steady pace, and Kelly says up to 50 per cent are seriously considering buying the car.

THE BRICKLIN'S unique qualities have created a market even though buyers usually are not allowed to drive the car before ordering. Kelly said they do have a chance to drive their own model when it arrives and decide then if they want to keep it.

But none of that matters to the drivers who want the sporty model. They are ignoring the price tag, the details, everything — all they want to know is when they can have one.

Malcolm Bricklin has created quite a stir with his brainchild, which can withstand high-speed impacts better than other autos and also protect the driver and passenger. The car has a "birdcage" roll-bar assembly that completely protects the interior, and has

$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

From Herald news services

The Senate quickly approved 46 to 17 the new $327 million Vietnam-aid bill authorizing a limited military evacuation if necessary but also urging President Ford to get all Americans out "forthwith."

The Senate passed the compromise bill only four hours after it was approved by House and Senate conferees, but the legislation faces days of further delay before Ford can sign it into law.

The house was not in session Friday and is not expected to vote on the measure before Tuesday.

Opponents to the aid bill made a last-ditch attempt to defeat it, berating the administration for its alleged failure to evacuate Americans swiftly enough and contending that Ford could divert some aid funds to military supply purposes.

SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON III, D-Ill., argued that military evacuation would cloud chances for a negotiated settlement with the North Vietnamese and raise risks of renewed U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

But the majority sided with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who said the bill provided necessary safeguards against such a prospect while still leaving Ford some flexibility for action.

"Congress has specified the ways that our armed forces can be used and yet has not tried to be an army officer itself in trying to tell the President directly how to do it," Javits said.

IN SAIGON, South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong said early today he would step down and turn over power to Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh if the National Assembly agreed in a formal vote that he should do so.

In a speech to the full assembly, Huong, 72, said the constitution prohibited him from handing over his powers as President to Minh, who many believe could open peace negotiations with the Communists.

The Assembly began debate on Huong's proposal after the president's speech. Huong succeeded President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday night when Thieu resigned after 10 years in power.

Political sources said Huong already has begun talks with Minh on ways to let the general take over as head of the Saigon government.

IN HIS SPEECH, Huong said he had offered Minh, 59, the post of prime minister but had been turned down. He said Minh, leader of the 1963 coup that deposed the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, insisted on taking over as chief executive.

Vietnamese sources dismissed a report that Huong was planning to send a cabinet minister to Hanoi to sue for peace as — in the words of one — "impossible."

They said the current cabinet is only a caretaker regime. In addition, the sources agreed, a political solution now can be reached only with the Viet Cong.

"We must negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, not Hanoi, and as of now the Viet Cong have refused to talk with the current government," said one politician close to the attempt to install a new Saigon regime.

Political sources said Huong's replacement by Minh could come as early as today, but the changeover likely would not take place until Monday.

Tough words are handed out by Emily Ehm during a spelling bee.

by JUDY JOBBITT

Faces tensed and palms perspired as a student reached into the box for the first piece of paper with one word on it.

The spelling bee began.

It was an odd match The new spelling club at London Junior High School, Wheeling — one of few clubs in the area — challenged the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 administration to pit its top spellers against the students in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Only 11 persons from the administration office accepted the challenge, although many more students were willing to try. The students have sought challengers from other junior high schools, but only the London teachers and the administrators have accepted the offer.

ADMINISTRATORS showed more signs of apprehension than the students before the match began. With the language-arts coordinator, special-education director and primary coordinator on their team, they represented the designers of programs that teach students to spell.

"I think it's rigged," said Richard Wynn, special-education director, before the first word was dropped.

The administrators "demanded" to have the words before the contest, though Wynn charged foul play because Emily Ehm, London teacher sponsoring the club, refused to give him his own list.

The first round proved embarrassing for some.

The first word eliminated Trudy Wiedemann of the business office, when she misspelled "liason."

Larry Chase, self-renewal director; Esther Stanfield, language-arts coordinator, and George Galvin, music coordinator, also went down on their first words. Mrs. Stanfield put a hyphen in "intramural." "And I'm the language-arts coordinator," she said sheepishly.

THE STUDENTS, who number about 25, say they do it for fun, even though it's "very tense." As Debbie Tipping put it. "You hate the word you miss forever."

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Roxanne left the field by grabbing the slip of paper with the word she missed and tearing it to shreds.

George Galvin gropes for that missing letter.

Frowns and stares of disbelief mark faces from both sides.

Rosanne Couston agonizes as the last student up.

Utility tax nets Hoffman Estates $43,000

Hoffman Estates has received its first utility tax money, $43,000 from Commonwealth Edison Co.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said the money was sent to the village this week, the first receipt from the tax since it was imposed Jan. 1. Funds are not expected from Illinois Bell Telephone Co until late May or June, Longmeyer said. Northern Illinois Gas Co has not confirmed when it will have the first funds ready for the village, he said.

The $43,000 is more than the village anticipated, Longmeyer said. If that figure is collected in each of the four yearly installment payments from the utility company, he said an estimated $172,000 could be provided from Edison alone.

The 5 per cent tax on utility bills in the village was imposed to raise money for a deficit in the fire department, which is expected to reach $325,000 by the end of the fiscal year April 30, 1976.

THE TAX IS scheduled to be collected through Dec. 31, 1976, but village officials have pledged to remove the levy as soon as enough funds are collected to cover the fire department deficit.

Some trustees have said the tax would be removed before the end of this year. If receipts from the other utilities are as high as that of Edison, the early removal of the tax could be possible, Longmeyer indicated.

"We said we needed $350,000, so if we get $172,000 from one utility, it depends," he said.

The utility tax has been an unpopular levy among most residents, but village officials, in proposing the levy last fall, said it would be the quickest way to raise funds for the debt-ridden fire department, which the village took control of Dec. 30.

Officials were critical, however, when it was learned after the tax was imposed that the utility companies would charge residents an added rate in excess of 5 per cent. The add-on charges are permitted by law, and are kept by the utility companies to cover accounting costs.

Convicted in bribery scandal

Peskin still awaiting appeal decision

A decision has yet to be reached on attorney Bernard Peskin's request for reversal of his bribery conviction stemming from a 1968 Hoffman Estates zoning scandal.

A three-member U.S. Appeals Court panel has not announced a decision on the appeal motion presented Jan. 13, Assistant U.S. Atty. John Cooley said. "It could be several more months before a decision is made," Cooley said.

Peskin, a former state representative from Northbrook, was convicted last year on five counts of bribery and one count each of conspiracy and income tax evasion for his part in funneling bribes from Kaufman and Broad Homes Inc. to six former village officials.

THE BRIBES were paid to win zoning approval for K&B's Barrington Square project near Barrington and Higgins roads.

The attorney was sentenced to three years in prison but has remained free pending the outcome of his appeal.

Peskin has argued he was kept from testifying in his own behalf because he would have been asked questions about an alleged bribe he attempted to give to Ben Sosewitz, former general superintendent of the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Government prosecutors had received permission from U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr, presiding over Peskin's trial, to question Peskin on the alleged $10,000 bribe offered to Sosewitz for approval of a sewer line to a K&B subdivision, according to a government pre-trial brief.

THE ALLEGED BRIBE was offered after the 1968 Hoffman Estates scandal, but the brief does not state specifically when the action came.

Peskin's attorney, Thomas Sullivan, argued before the three-judge panel in January that the ruling surrounding Peskin's testimony prevented him from taking the stand and hampered his defense effort.

Sullivan's presentation in January said Peskin was the victim of extortion by the six former village officials rather than the instigator of the scandal, but because Peskin did not take the stand in his own defense, the jury failed to hear testimony other than that of witnesses hostile to Peskin.

Peskin is the only remaining figure in the case who has yet to serve a portion or all of his sentence. The six former village officials have all been paroled from federal prisons, the last being former Village Pres. Roy L. Jenkins, who was released on parole Wednesday by federal authorities in California.

Chicago man nabbed on bribe rap

A 29-year-old Chicago man was arrested Friday after Schaumburg police said he attempted to bribe an officer who stopped him for a speeding violation.

The man, Richard J. Kostuch, allegedly attempted repeatedly to give the patrolman $15 to avoid being ticketed. Kostuch was stopped on Schaumburg Road after the motorcycle he was riding was clocked at 70 m.p.h., police said.

Kostuch was charged with bribery, speeding, improper use of license plates and driving with a suspended license. He was released on $2,000 bond and is to appear May 14 in Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Man pleads guilty to bond theft charge

An Elk Grove Village man pleaded guilty Friday in Circuit Court to a felony theft charge filed in connection with an attempt last October to cash an estimated $75,000 in stolen municipal bonds.

Judge Marvin E. Aspen set sentencing for Theodore E. Price, 47, of 100 Wildwood, for May 21 at the Civic Center, Chicago.

Price attempted to cash the bonds at the Schaumburg State Bank, but was arrested when bank officials became suspicious of the bonds. The securities were taken in a $100,000 Lake County burglary last year.

City wins court backing in halting sewer work

Rolling Meadows has won court authorization to block construction of a new sewer main along Rohlwing Road.

The city fought a request by Mole Construction Co for an extension of a restraining order that barred the city from interfering with installation of a Metropolitan Sanitary District main to connect to the John E. Egan Water Reclamation Plant under construction in Schaumburg Township.

The city had placed a stop-work order on the project April 14, citing Mole for using unsafe generating equipment. But Mole won a temporary restraining order April 15, barring the city from enforcing its citation.

The temporary order expired at midnight Thursday, and Mole asked Circuit Court Judge L. Sheldon Brown to extend it Thursday afternoon.

Mole's argument that city ordinances have no jurisdiction over a project for another governmental agency was not accepted by Brown.

But the judge scheduled another hearing at 11 a.m. May 6 in the Civic Center, Chicago, on Mole's contention the specific ordinances listed in the original citation did not apply to the situation.

Robert Lindquist, city electrical inspector, issued a new stop-work order at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Man pleads guilty to bond theft charge

An Elk Grove Village man pleaded guilty Friday in Circuit Court to a felony theft charge filed in connection with an attempt last October to cash an estimated $75,000 in stolen municipal bonds.

Judge Marvin E. Aspen set sentencing for Theodore E. Price, 47, of 100 Wildwood, for May 21 at the Civic Center, Chicago.

Price attempted to cash the bonds at the Schaumburg State Bank, but was arrested when bank officials became suspicious of the bonds. The securities were taken in a $100,000 Lake County burglary last year.

Fire chief in intensive-care unit

Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty was listed in serious condition Friday in the intensive-care unit of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Chief Fogarty was recuperating from surgery Thursday for diverticulitis, an inflamation of the intestines. He was admitted to the hospital early this week.

$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

From Herald news services

The Senate quickly approved 46 to 17 the new $327 million Vietnam-aid bill authorizing a limited military evacuation if necessary but also urging President Ford to get all Americans out "forthwith."

The Senate passed the compromise bill only four hours after it was approved by House and Senate conferees, but the legislation faces days of further delay before Ford can sign it into law.

The house was not in session Friday and is not expected to vote on the measure before Tuesday.

Opponents to the aid bill made a last-ditch attempt to defeat it, berating the administration for its alleged failure to evacuate Americans swiftly enough and contending that Ford could divert some aid funds to military supply purposes.

SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON III, D-Ill., argued that military evacuation would cloud chances for a negotiated settlement with the North Vietnamese and raise risks of renewed U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

But the majority sided with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who said the bill provided necessary safeguards against such a prospect while still leaving Ford some flexibility for action.

"Congress has specified the ways that our armed forces can be used and yet has not tried to be an army officer itself in trying to tell the President directly how to do it," Javits said.

IN SAIGON, South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong said early today he would step down and turn over power to Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh if the National Assembly agreed in a formal vote that he should do so.

In a speech to the full assembly, Huong, 72, said the constitution prohibited him from handing over his powers as President to Minh, who many believe could open peace negotiations with the Communists.

The Assembly began debate on Huong's proposal after the president's speech. Huong succeeded President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday night when Thieu resigned after 10 years in power.

Political sources said Huong already has begun talks with Minh on ways to let the general take over as head of the Saigon government.

IN HIS SPEECH, Huong said he had offered Minh, 59, the post of prime minister but had been turned down. He said Minh, leader of the 1963 coup that deposed the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, insisted on taking over as chief executive.

Vietnamese sources dismissed a report that Huong was planning to send a cabinet minister to Hanoi to sue for peace as — in the words of one — "impossible."

They said the current cabinet is only a caretaker regime. In addition, the sources agreed, a political solution now can be reached only with the Viet Cong.

"We must negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, not Hanoi, and as of now the Viet Cong have refused to talk with the current government," said one politician close to the attempt to install a new Saigon regime.

Political sources said Huong's replacement by Minh could come as early as today, but the changeover likely would not take place until Monday.

Developer paid Atcher property taxes since '70

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT and PAT GERLACH

A major Schaumburg developer has paid property taxes since 1970 on the home of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, a Herald investigation has disclosed.

The developer, Lancer Corp., has spent more than $6,000 for real estate taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct.

The property, an estate that includes a large two-story house, two outbuildings and a swimming pool, is adjacent to the company's Lancer Park subdivision.

"Yes, we've paid the taxes," said Neal L. Hunter, Lancer president. "Mr. Atcher is going to reimburse us."

BOTH HUNTER and Atcher's attorney, James M. Guthrie, denied any wrongdoing. They said the tax payments were an oversight that followed a series of property divisions in the area.

THE HERALD disclosed April 5 that Atcher's land dealings in Schaumburg, including purchase of his home in November 1969, are under investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Atcher purchased the home less than two years after Lancer won village board approval of annexation, rezoning and subdivision plans for Lancer Park. He bought the home from Fred H. Groen Sr., who also had sold Lancer the property for its subdivision.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the $75,000 paid for the home by Atcher in 1969 was less than its market value. Atcher's records at Schaumburg State Bank, where he received a mortgage loan for the house, were subpoenaed last year.

JAMES M. GUTHRIE

ROBERT O. ATCHER

The Herald investigation of property taxes on the home has revealed that:

• Atcher never has received a tax bill from Cook County for the home although he has owned the property since November 1969.

• He apparently never has requested a property division that would direct a tax bill to him.

• Atcher never has paid taxes on the home.

ATCHER, 60, who did not seek reelection as village president April 15, has refused to discuss his real estate dealings with The Herald.

He was Republican Party candidate in 1970 for county clerk — the office that computes tax rates using real estate assessments.

HUNTER CALLED the tax payments an "oversight." "We just haven't got around to correcting it yet," he said. Hunter said he visited the County Building Thursday in search of records on the property but was unable to obtain them.

Guthrie, a Schaumburg trustee elected to the village board in 1971, said he was hired by Atcher in July 1972 to straighten out the tax bill problem.

"I just didn't get around to it," Guthrie said. "But every once in a while would check to make sure the property was not up for delinquent-tax sale. It is my fault."

Guthrie showed Herald reporters copies of two letters dated 1972 that Guthrie had written to Atcher about the property-tax situation. In both, Guthrie told of difficulties in obtaining a propery division so that Atcher would receive a tax bill or the house.

GUTHRIE SAID Atcher learned only last week that Lancer Corp. was paying the taxes on his home. He said Atcher wasn't aware of the payments until Hunter called Atcher last week and said Herald reporters had inquired about the taxes. At that time, Guthrie said, Hunter informed Atcher of the tax payments by Lancer.

But Hunter said he notified Atcher

A 'loaded' Bricklin— yours for just $10,540

Dealers getting big offers for sport model with '1980s' safety features

by STEVE FORSYTH

Of all the questions to ask about the Bricklin, the newest production car on the market, potential customers seem to have one thing in mind — "How soon can I get one?"

William Kelly, president of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., Arlington Heights, is one of the 13 Bricklin dealers in the Chicago area, and he says he is fighting off buyers who want the only model he has on the showroom floor. Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg, also is a franchised dealer for the Bricklin.

Kelly said he has had six or seven offers to buy the car at more than its list price of $10,540 — if he delivers it now. Gritting his teeth, he said he has had to turn down the offers, but he is selling the cars on a "guaranteed first-come, first-served basis."

The combination sports-safety cars, designated SV-1, for "Safety Vehicle," will arrive at Kelly's and Faul's dealerships at a painstaking rate of two or three a month for the first 90 days, and buyers cannot order by color. The Canadian-built autos are in high demand around the nation, despite the absence of advertising, and Kelly says, "The car has had tremendous reception so far."

Kelly has had one Bricklin on display since Monday, but he didn't advertise it until Thursday. The lookers have been trickling in at a steady pace, and Kelly says up to 50 per cent are seriously considering buying the car.

THE BRICKLIN'S unique qualities have created a market even though buyers usually are not allowed to drive the car before ordering. Kelly said they do have a chance to drive their own model when it arrives and decide then if they want to keep it.

But none of that matters to the drivers who want the sporty model. They are ignoring the price tag, the details, everything — all they want to know is when they can have one.

Malcolm Bricklin has created quite a stir with his brainchild, which can withstand high-speed impacts better than other autos and also protect the driver and passenger. The car has a "birdcage" roll-bar assembly that completely protects the interior, and has Tough words are handed out by Emily Ehm during a spelling bee.

by JUDY JOBBITT

Faces tensed and palms perspired as a student reached into the box for the first piece of paper with one word on it.

The spelling bee began.

It was an odd match. The new spelling club at London Junior High School, Wheeling — one of few clubs in the area — challenged the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 administration to pit its top spellers against the students in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Only 11 persons from the administration office accepted the challenge, although many more students were willing to try. The students have sought challengers from other junior high schools and high schools, but only the London teachers and the administrators have accepted the offer.

ADMINISTRATORS showed more signs of apprehension than the students before the match began. With the language-arts coordinator, special-education director and primary coordinator on their team, they represented the designers of programs that teach students to spell.

"I think it's rigged," said Richard Wynn, special-education director, before the first word was dropped.

The administrators "demanded" to have the words before the contest, though Wynn charged foul play because Emily Ehm, London teacher sponsoring the club, refused to give him his own list.

The first round proved embarrassing for some.

The first word eliminated Trudy Wiedemann of the business office, when she misspelled "liason."

Larry Chase, self-renewal director; Esther Stanfield, language-arts coordinator, and George Galvin, music coordinator, also went down on their first words. Mrs. Stanfield put a hyphen in "intramural." "And I'm the language-arts coordinator," she said sheepishly.

THE STUDENTS, who number about 25, say they do it for fun, even though it's "very tense." As Debbie Tipping put it, "You hate the word you miss forever."

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Roxanne left the field by grabbing the slip of paper with the word she missed and tearing it to shreds.

George Galvin gropes for that missing letter.

Frowns and stares of disbelief mark faces from both sides.

Rosanne Couston agonizes as the last student up.

ICC weighs Ferndale water rate increase

The Illinois Commerce Commission still is considering a request from Ferndale Heights Utility Co. for a 16.4 per cent increase in water rates.

The original request for the rate increase, which was filed nearly a year ago, was denied. A rehearing on the rate increase was held last month by the ICC at the request of the owners of Ferndale Heights Utility Co. A decision was expected by now because only new evidence was entered at the rehearing.

If approved, the minimum quarterly water bill would increase from $16.20 to $18.85 for the more than 2,000 customers Ferndale Heights serves in Palatine Township. An increase in the quarterly sewer bill from $12 to $14 has already been approved by the commission.

More than 400 to be represented

Palanois Park to form homeowners' unit

Residents of Palanois Park, one of Palatine's oldest subdivisions, are forming a homeowners' association to consider issues ranging from gas leaks to the proposed Chicago Bears stadium.

A seven-member steering committee has scheduled an organizational meeting for 8 p.m. May 6 at the Community Park Recreation Building.

The Palanois Park Homeowners' Assn. will represent more than 400 homeowners in an area bounded by Lincoln Street, Rohlwing Road and Northwest Highway.

"We are going to try to act as a collective voice which we feel will probably be more effective than an individual effort when it comes to discussing or, if need be, fighting for issues," said Theodore Becker, the area's representative on the Citizens' Council of the Palatine Advisory Board.

"THE ASSOCIATION is going to be there when it's needed. When issues affecting Palatine and our area in particular arise, no longer will a concerned individual have to arouse the interests of the residents by him or herself," he said.

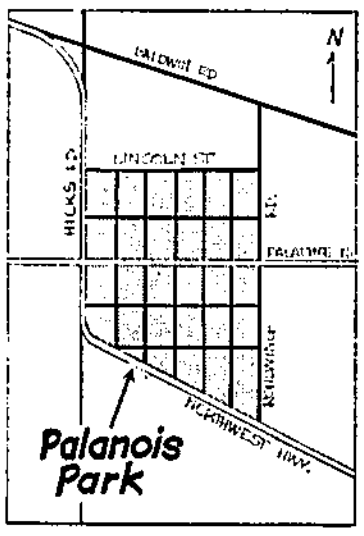
Becker said the association would keep its members informed through meetings and newsletters.

Some of the areas Becker feels the association may become involved in are:

- The reason for gas leaks and odors in a three-block area of the subdivision.
- Noise and dust pollution from a concrete company on Northwest Highway.
- Traffic problems on Rohlwing Road if the Chicago Bears move to Arlington Heights.
- The use of a 6.7-acre vacant parcel near the subdivision owned by the City of Rolling Meadows where an incinerator and compact station has been proposed.
- Weeds on vacant lots.
- Abandoned buildings.

Becker said citizens of the subdivision have become involved in various issues in the past but this is the first attempt he is aware of to organize a homeowners' association.

Members of the Palanois Park Homeowners' Assn. steering committee include Harold Quist, Elliot Manint, Robert Neckerman, Chester and Alice Ragland, Gerry Anderson and Becker.



NEWSPAPERS LEFT at the Palatine Recycling Center on Smith Street near Northwest Highway when the center is not open are creating an eyesore and lots of extra work, recycling committee members say. Residents have been asked not to leave items, unless the center is open. Palatine Girl Scouts will work at the center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today as part of a "Keep America Beautiful" program. Free flower seeds will be given to the first 500 cars. The center is open on the second and fourth Saturday of every month to accept newspapers, bottles with metal rings removed and cans.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Register to help youths find jobs, employers told

Elk Grove Township officials are asking area employers who anticipate having full or part-time summer job openings for high school and college students to register with the township's Youth Employment Service.

Township Supervisor Richard Hall said letters will be sent to more than 1,500 local employers in the next two weeks so the township can begin compiling summer job listings.

"The summer program was reasonably successful last year," Hall said, "but we're anticipating there won't be as many jobs around this summer."

Most of the summer jobs that will be available through the township's Youth Employment Service probably will be for persons 18 years of age and older, Hall said, although there may be a few positions for students between the ages of 16 and 18.

STUDENTS INTERESTED in a summer job may fill out an application at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. The township issues referral cards equivalent to letters of introduction to each company offering a job. It is up to the student interested in the job to arrange an interview with the company.

The township job listing includes information on job descriptions, skills required, age requirements and salaries. Up to 10 referral cards on various jobs will be issued to each student.

Nita Stamm, director of the Youth Employment Program, will give students information on what to expect during a job interview and how to prepare for an interview.

The township program is not connected with local schools, although Mrs Stamm said the township works closely with schools in cases where employers seek immediate workers or in student referrals from schools to the township.

Softball league has 4 openings

Oepnings for four teams are still available in the Prospect Heights Park District's men's softball league.

The 18-game season begins June 8. The registration fee is $145 and up to 25 persons can be on a team.

Park Director Ronald Greenberg said interested persons should call the park office at 394-2848, as soon as possible. Teams will be accepted on a first come, first served basis. Greenberg said other area park districts have waiting lists for their leagues.

Art league show slated this weekend

The Mount Prospect Art League will have its 1975 show today and Sunday at the Randhurst Shopping Center mall, Mount Prospect.

The works exhibited will range from amateur efforts to paintings, drawings and sculptures by professional artists. Some of the works are being offered for sale.

Saigon leaders debate

$327 million Vietnam aid, evacuation OKd

From Herald news services

The Senate quickly approved 46 to 17 the new $327 million Vietnam-aid bill authorizing a limited military evacuation if necessary but also urging President Ford to get all Americans out "forthwith."

The Senate passed the compromise bill only four hours after it was approved by House and Senate conferees, but the legislation faces days of further delay before Ford can sign it into law.

The house was not in session Friday and is not expected to vote on the measure before Tuesday.

Opponents to the aid bill made a last-ditch attempt to defeat it, berating the administration for its alleged failure to evacuate Americans swiftly enough and contending that Ford could divert some aid funds to military supply purposes.

SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON III, D-Ill., argued that military evacuation would cloud chances for a negotiated settlement with the North Vietnamese and raise risks of renewed U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

But the majority sided with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who said the bill provided necessary safeguards against such a prospect while still leaving Ford some flexibility for action.

"Congress has specified the ways that our armed forces can be used and yet has not tried to be an army officer itself in trying to tell the President directly how to do it," Javits said.

IN SAIGON, South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong said early today he would step down and turn over power to Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh if the National Assembly agreed in a formal vote that he should do so.

In a speech to the full assembly, Huong, 72, said the constitution prohibited him from handing over his powers as President to Minh, who many believe could open peace negotiations with the Communists.

The Assembly began debate on Huong's proposal after the president's speech. Huong succeeded President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday night when Thieu resigned after 10 years in power.

Political sources said Huong already has begun talks with Minh on ways to let the general take over as head of the Saigon government.

IN HIS SPEECH, Huong said he had offered Minh, 59, the post of prime minister but had been turned down. He said Minh, leader of the 1963 coup that deposed the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, insisted on taking over as chief executive.

Vietnamese sources dismissed a report that Huong was planning to send a cabinet minister to Hanoi to sue for peace as — in the words of one — "impossible."

They said the current cabinet is only a caretaker regime. In addition, the sources agreed, a political solution now can be reached only with the Viet Cong.

"We must negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, not Hanoi, and as of now the Viet Cong have refused to talk with the current government," said one politician close to the attempt to install a new Saigon regime.

Political sources said Huong's replacement by Minh could come as early as today, but the changeover likely would not take place until Monday.

Developer paid Atcher property taxes since '70

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT and PAT GERLACH

A major Schaumburg developer has paid property taxes since 1970 on the home of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, a Herald investigation has disclosed.

The developer, Lancer Corp., has spent more than $6,000 for real estate taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct.

The property, an estate that includes a large two-story house, two outbuildings and a swimming pool, is adjacent to the company's Lancer Park subdivision.

"Yes, we've paid the taxes," said Neal L. Hunter, Lancer president. "Mr. Atcher is going to reimburse us."

BOTH HUNTER and Atcher's attorney, James M. Guthrie, denied any wrongdoing. They said the tax payments were an oversight that followed a series of property divisions in the area.

THE HERALD disclosed April 5 that Atcher's land dealings in Schaumburg, including purchase of his home in November 1969, are under investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Atcher purchased the home less than two years after Lancer won village board approval of annexation, rezoning and subdivision plans for Lancer Park. He bought the home from Fred H. Groen Sr., who also had sold Lancer the property for its subdivision.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the $75,000 paid for the home by Atcher in 1969 was less than its market value. Atcher's records at Schaumburg State Bank, where he received a mortgage loan for the house, were subpoenaed last year.

JAMES M. GUTHRIE

The Herald investigation of property taxes on the home has revealed that:

- Atcher never has received a tax bill from Cook County for the home although he has owned the property since November 1969.
- He apparently never has requested a property division that would direct a tax bill to him.

ROBERT O. ATCHER

- Atcher never has paid taxes on the home.

ATCHER, 60, who did not seek reelection as village president April 15, has refused to discuss his real estate dealings with The Herald.

He was Republican Party candidate in 1970 for county clerk — the office that computes tax rates using real estate assessments.

HUNTER CALLED the tax payments an "oversight." "We just haven't got around to correcting it yet," he said. Hunter said he visited the County Building Thursday in search of records on the property but was unable to obtain them.

Guthrie, a Schaumburg trustee elected to the village board in 1971, said he was hired by Atcher in July 1972 to straighten out the tax bill problem.

"I just didn't get around to it," Guthrie said. "But every once in a while would check to make sure the property was not up for delinquent-tax sale. It is my fault."

Guthrie showed Herald reporters copies of two letters dated 1972 that Guthrie had written to Atcher about the property-tax situation. In both, Guthrie told of difficulties in obtaining a propery division so that Atcher would receive a tax bill or the house.

GUTHRIE SAID Atcher learned only last week that Lancer Corp. was paying the taxes on his home. He said Atcher wasn't aware of the payments until Hunter called Atcher last week and said Herald reporters had inquired about the taxes. At that time, Guthrie said, Hunter informed Atcher of the tax payments by Lancer.

But Hunter said he notified Atcher

A 'loaded' Bricklin— yours for just $10,540

Dealers getting big offers for sport model with '1980s' safety features

by STEVE FORSYTH

Of all the questions to ask about the Bricklin, the newest production car on the market, potential customers seem to have one thing in mind — "How soon can I get one?"

William Kelly, president of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., Arlington Heights, is one of the 13 Bricklin dealers in the Chicago area, and he says he is fighting off buyers who want the only model he has on the showroom floor. Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg, also is a franchised dealer for the Bricklin.

Kelly said he has had six or seven offers to buy the car at more than its list price of $10,540 — if he delivers it now. Gritting his teeth, he said he has had to turn down the offers, but he is selling the cars on a "guaranteed first-come, first-served basis."

The combination sports-safety cars, designated SV-1, for "Safety Vehicle," will arrive at Kelly's and Faul's dealerships at a painstaking rate of two or three a month for the first 90 days, and buyers cannot order by color. The Canadian-built autos are in high demand around the nation, despite the absence of advertising, and Kelly says, "The car has had tremendous reception so far."

Kelly has had one Bricklin on display since Monday, but he didn't advertise it until Thursday. The lookers have been trickling in at a steady pace, and Kelly says up to 50 per cent are seriously considering buying the car.

THE BRICKLIN'S unique qualities have created a market even though buyers usually are not allowed to drive the car before ordering. Kelly said they do have a chance to drive their own model when it arrives and decide then if they want to keep it.

But none of that matters to the drivers who want the sporty model. They are ignoring the price tag, the details, everything — all they want to know is when they can have one.

Malcolm Bricklin has created quite a stir with his brainchild, which can withstand high-speed impacts better than other autos and also protect the driver and passenger. The car has a "birdcage" roll-bar assembly that completely protects the interior, and has Tough words are handed out by Emily Ehm during a spelling bee.

by JUDY JOBBITT

Faces tensed and palms perspired as a student reached into the box for the first piece of paper with one word on it.

The spelling bee began.

It was an odd match. The new spelling club at London Junior High School, Wheeling — one of few clubs in the area — challenged the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 administration to pit its top spellers against the students in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Only 11 persons from the administration office accepted the challenge, although many more students were willing to try. The students have sought challengers from other junior high schools and high schools, but only the London teachers and the administrators have accepted the offer.

ADMINISTRATORS showed more signs of apprehension than the students before the match began. With the language-arts coordinator, special-education director and primary coordinator on their team, they represented the designers of programs that teach students to spell.

The first word eliminated Trudy Wiedemann of the business office, when she misspelled "liason."

Larry Chase, self-renewal director; Esther Stanfield, language-arts coordinator, and George Galvin, music coordinator, also went down on their first words. Mrs. Stanfield put a hyphen in "intramural." "And I'm the language-arts coordinator," she said sheepishly.

THE STUDENTS, who number about 25, say they do it for fun, even though it's "very tense." As Debbie Tipping put it, "You hate the word you miss forever."

When the teams were down to six members each, it took tough words like "galoot," "kepi" and "omnipotence" before the spellers would drop.

The final runoff was between Rosanne Couston for the students and Wynn and Fran Voris, the primary coordinator, for the administration.

Rosanne had to spell two words for every one spelled by Wynn and Miss Voris. But she held them off for three rounds before she met her match — "emigrant" — spelling the word with two m's. Wynn won the day by spelling it correctly and finishing the match with a slim victory for the administration.

Frowns and stares of disbelief mark faces from both sides.

Officials to check light systems in five suburbs

Arlington Heights officials, who are trying to decide whether to extend the use of sodium-vapor streetlights throughout the village, will take a bus to five other suburbs next week to inspect different types of lights.

Members of the village board and plan commission will look at lights in the suburbs of Elmwood Park, Forest Park, Oak Park, Norridge and Park Ridge. They also will see the high-powered sodium-vapor security lights being installed along the streets of Chicago.

At the end of the tour, officials will go to a test area on Princeton Avenue south of White Oak Street where the village has put up three different types of sodium-vapor lights.

THE WEDNESDAY night trip is being planned by William Bachem, Arlington Heights electrical engineer. Bachem is a proponent of sodium-vapor lights when placed in sharp-cut-off fixtures, and says the five suburbs chosen for the trip each have lihts that he considers unacceptable in Arlington Heights.

"These suburbs have all put in what I consider to be bad light systems, whether they be sodium vapor, mercury vapor or gas lights," Bachem said.

Elmwood Park has installed sodium-vapor streetlights on its main streets. Oak Park has put mercury-vapor bulbs into its traditional-style lamp fixtures. And Park Ridge has gas streetlights in its downtown business district.

Bachem says he supports the use of sodium-vapor street lights in Arlington Heights because they are efficient and controllable. "I am more concerned about glare than color," he says.

But some Arlington Heights residents, particularly those in the Searsdale subdivision where a sodium-vapor street-lighting system was proposed, have objected to the brightness and orange color of sodium-vapor lights.

AFTER THE citizen protest, the village board halted any further installation of sodium-vapor lights pending a review of street-lighting standards by the plan commission.

The one exception, the sodium-vapor lights along Princeton Avenue, were put in about a month ago after 20 residents in the block agreed to use the street as a test area.

One of the test lights is a sharp cut-off, flat-bottomed lamp that directs nearly all of the light onto the street with little reflected light on the sidewalk, parkway or front yard. The second test light uses a 150-watt sodium-vapor light as a replacement for a 250-watt mercury-vapor bulb in a fixture commonly used throughout the village, Bachem said.

The third test light will be installed Monday and is described by Bahem as a compromise between the other two.

RECENT controversy over the use of sodium-vapor lights has cropped up in several Northwest suburbs. However, Bachem says the lights are not really new to Arlington Heights.

The first sodium-vapor street lights were installed in the village in 1968 at Euclid Avenue and Northwest Highway when the traffic signals at that intersection were modernized, he said.

Today there are nearly 100 sodium-vapor lights throughout the village. Most of these were put in during the past two years.
